Muncie Central High School

801 North Walnut Street
Muncie, Indiana 47305
Volume 67

Pucker up! Freshman Mike Smoltz prepares for a smooch from senior Wendy Stanton. Wendy was raising money for Honor Society at their Homecoming booth.

We got the beat. Sophomores Brian Routh and Mike Wedmore watch intently for their cue from band director Mr. Pritchett at a pep session.

Wow, we're a couple is what Senior Kevin Kalley and Freshman Carrie Sloan seem to say when they are interrupted in the student center.

Just another 1000 points might be what Amy Cartwright, sophomore, needs to do to make a top score.

Inside the middle

We've all heard it before. Everyone knows that Muncie, Indiana is known throughout the country as "Middletown, U.S.A.," the average American town. What do those stereotypes mean to Muncie Central? Are we, as Bearcats, part of the title?

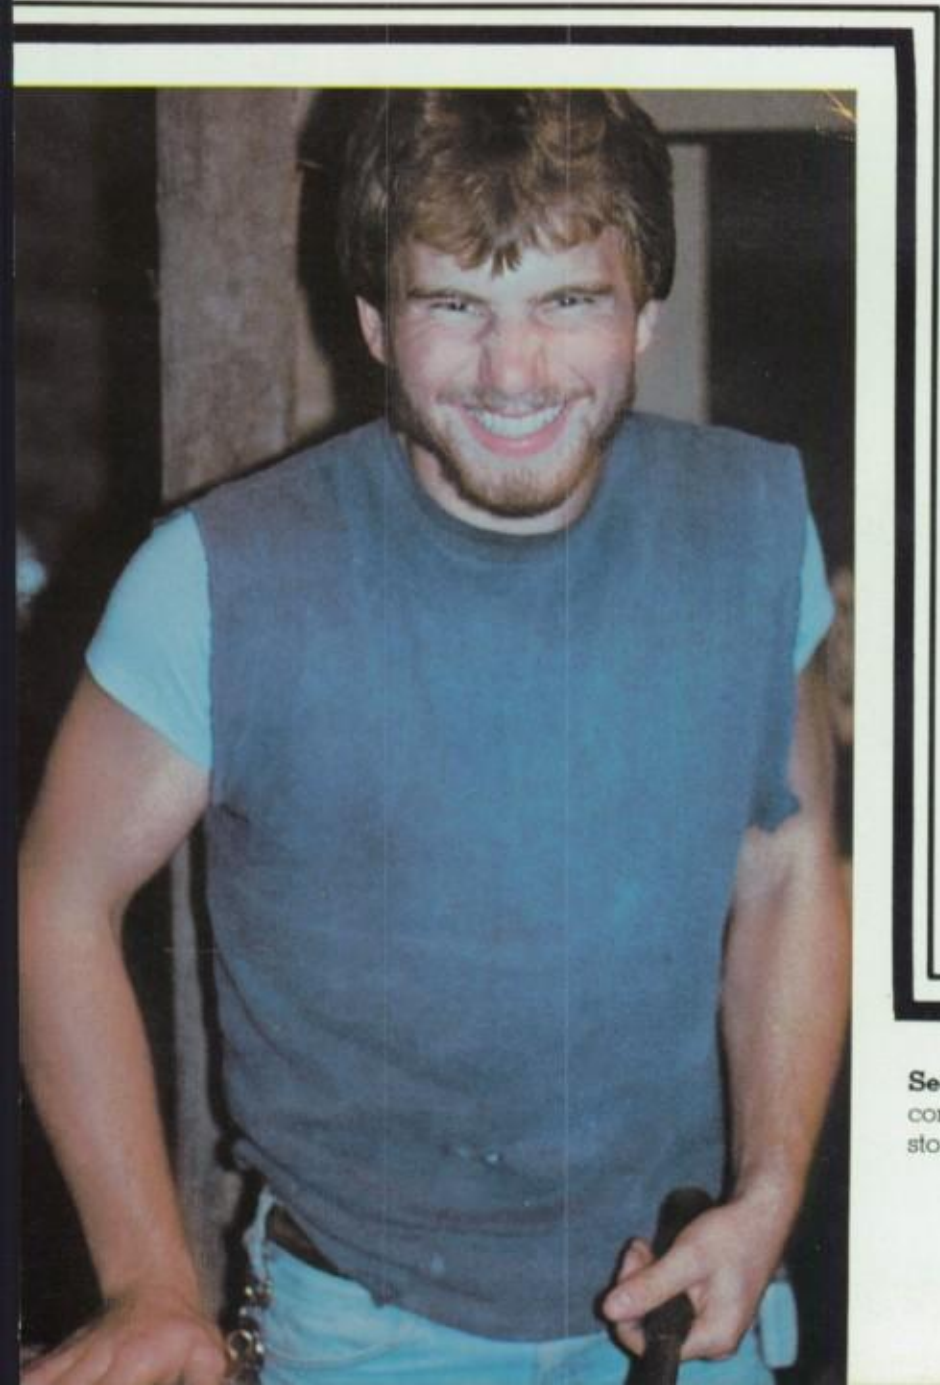

To the outside world, Muncie Central appears to fit the mold to a "T". We are located in the heart of Muncie. Our attendance, the average number for a high school, is a "melting pot" of students from every walk of life, every section of Middletown.

On PBS, March 31, Central was thrust into the spotlight with the second airing of "Middletown," a documentary by Peter Davis. The two hour program was a focus on our basketball game against Anderson. Peter Davis tried to relate his idea of a middle size school in a middle size town. For months, cameramen roamed the halls of Central, trying to capture our true identity.

"Muncie Central" doesn't sound complete without the word "Bearcat" following it. Neither an outsider nor a stereotype can capture the individuality of being a Bearcat. The modern structure of our school, the athletes, the alumni, and most importantly the students and faculty bring the building to life for 177 days, and then some!

Bearcats are a unique breed. The four short years we wear the purple and white will be remembered all of our lives. Muncie Central decidedly rose up and out in 1983. We proved what we have known all along: being a Bearcat is a unique experience.

See, Topal really works! While helping to complete the senior float, Howard Holbrook stops for a moment to enjoy a good laugh.

"That's not what I heard!" Says Tara Lee, Junior, to Vanesa Walling, Sophomore, as they wait for their rides in front of school.

The everyday routine

When school began in September, everyone had something new to look forward to. Freshmen, feeling somewhat scared, had to face new experiences. Seniors, on the other hand, felt comfortable about school, but were apprehensive about what they would face after graduation.

Every morning at 8:00 a.m. Bearcats were expected to be seated at their desks, ready to begin another day at Central. Occasionally, the daily routine of school made the days rush by rapidly. Usually, it seemed as if sixth period would never arrive.

Muncie Central provided Bearcats with an education, life-long friends and memories. Each day fresh opportunities to learn, different people to meet, and enjoyable experiences to recall.

Whether we liked it or not, Muncie Central was an important part of our lives.

Hocus, pocus. Magic man Micheal Bradley, Senior, performs a magic trick in study hall.

"All right, you got me." says Senior Cheryl Gallagher to a roving photographer.

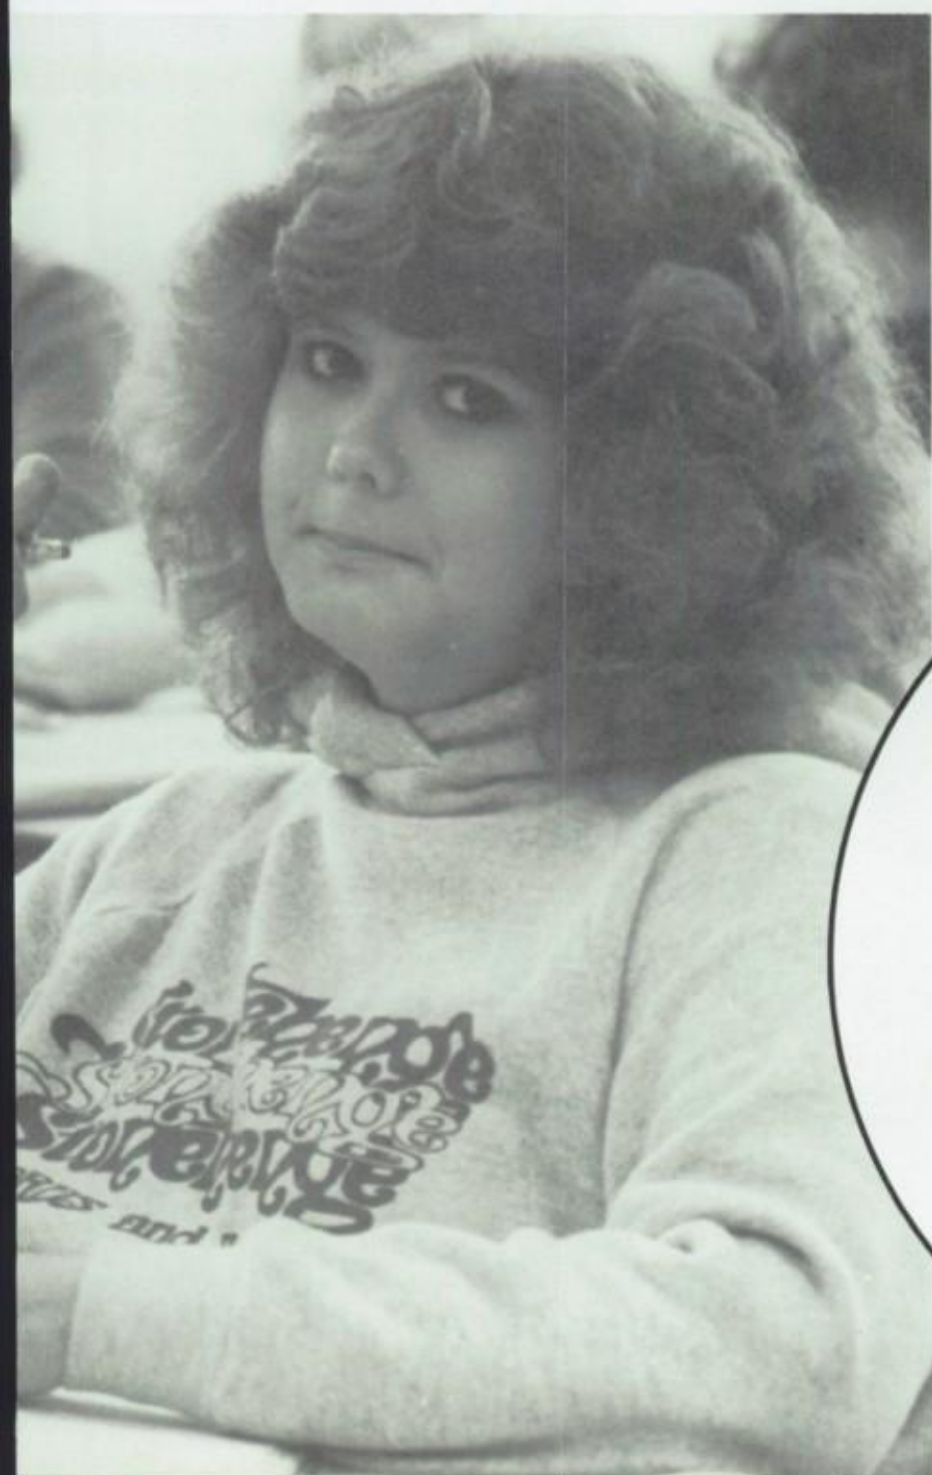

"That can't be right!" thinks Junior Anita (or is it Shenita?) Byrd as she studies in typing class.

Working overtime is Ronald Settles, Junior, in the IMC.

Clownin' around are Freshmen Carol Wagoner and Stacy Wallace in an English class.

That Friday feeling!

Student Life

It's Friday! The minute hand is moving ever so slowly to reach 2:25 PM. Finally, it rings! Lockers slam, the halls empty quickly. At that moment, the Friday feeling was at its peak.

When the final bell rang, what was on the mind of a Bearcat? Certainly, the exciting annual events, such as homecoming, prom, and graduation highlighted 1983. We might have been eagerly anticipating the weekend parties, dances and the special plans with that special someone.

Bearcats were always on the inside of the good times.

Gag me with a spork! Steve Hammer, Junior, gives us his impression of a "Valley Girl."

Saturday afternoon football. Seniors Derek Ludwig and Jeff Hooganboom make the most of their weekend.

296 graduates begin planning "tomorrow"

Looking ahead into the future is graduate Scott Risk after receiving his diploma.

Hey what can I say seems to be the expression on graduate Bill Riasor's face after finally completing his four years of high school.

On June 2, Muncie Central's class of '82 marched down the aisle of Emens auditorium to receive their diplomas.

Valedictorians out of the 296 graduates included Phil Armstrong, Joe Long, and Bill Riasor.

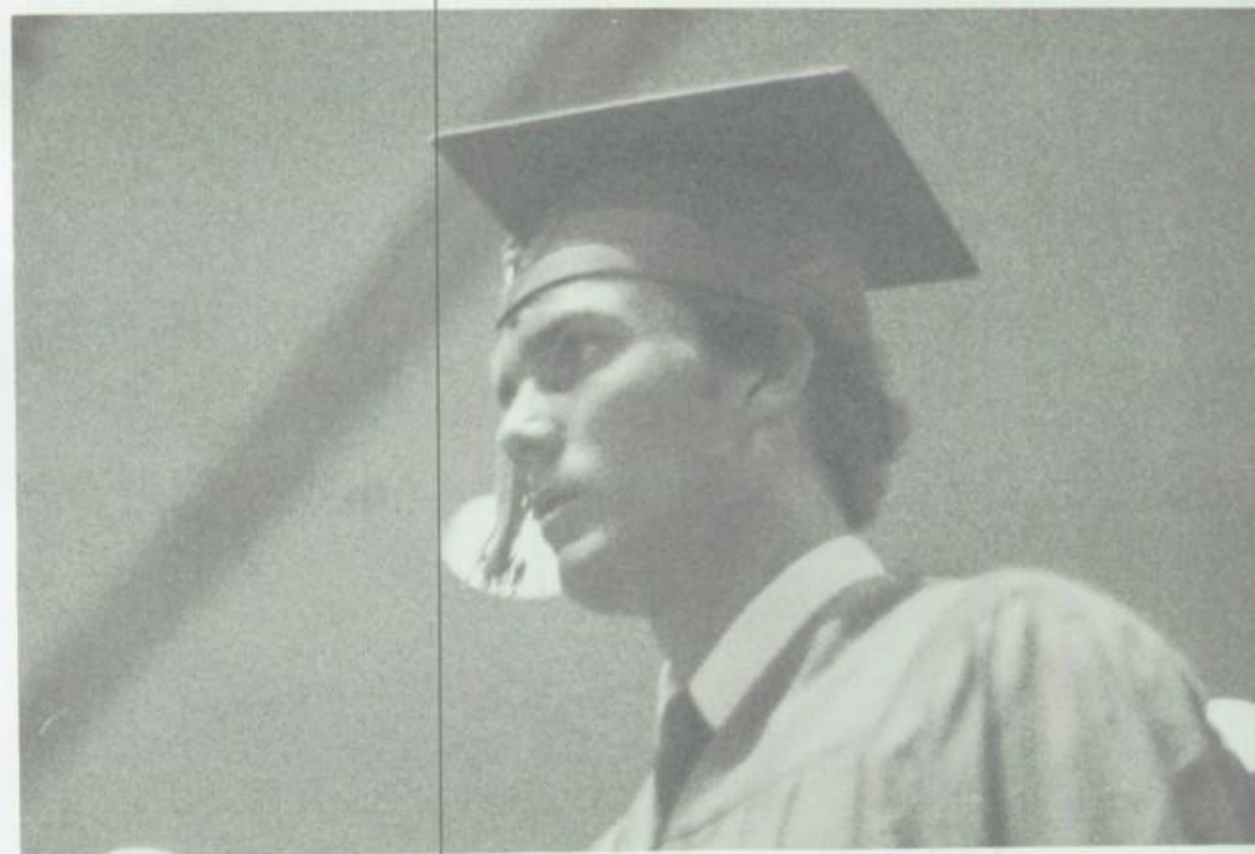

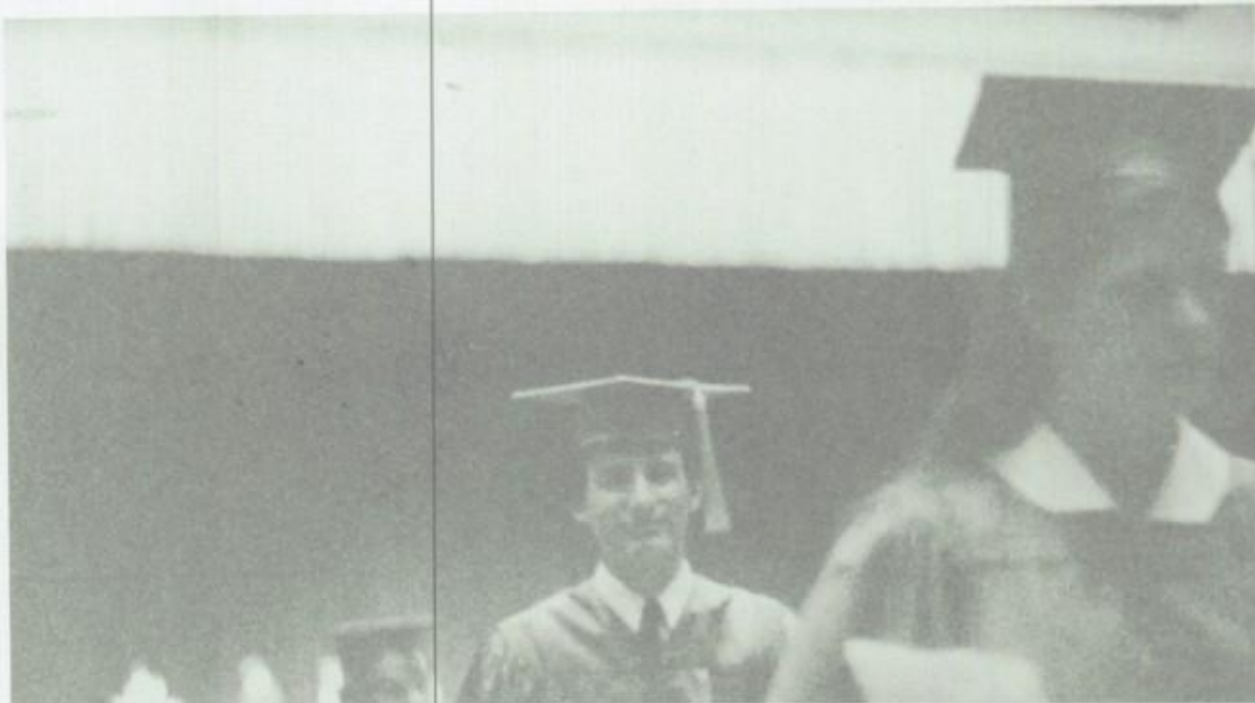

Speakers for the class were Diana Cartwright and Susan Thomas.

"Tomorrow" was chosen as the theme for the ceremonies.

The Spirit of the Class was passed over to the Class of '83 officers from the senior officers. Officers included: Linda Smalley, president, Tracey McCormick, vice-president, Liz Muterspaugh, secretary, and Joe Long, treasurer.

Muncie Central's Class of '82 will always be remembered as one of the best classes ever at Muncie Central. They made many contributions to the school, one of which was a spruce tree that replaced the one that was destroyed during a storm.

Waiting with anticipation to receive his diploma is graduate Todd Van Winkle.

150 couples "Sail on" to prom

"Muncie Central's 1982 Prom finally ended in success after all the effort the Junior Class put into it," stated Senior Ma-a Harris.

150 couples attended the annual event. The theme "Sail On" was carried through by a bridge entering into a tropical setting which featured a rainbow of colors. Light blue served as the main color.

A variety of fruits and cheeses were served, along with tropical punch.

Crowned as 1982 Prom Queen was Jill Adams. Jennifer Griffith, Kim Barton, and Pam Motsenbocker were members of the court.

Favors included gold necklaces with "Sail On" engraved on the charm. Gold keychains were given to the guys with the inscription of "Sail On."

Pedaler was the featured band. Bowling at the Bowl-O-Mat was held after the dance.

Waiting patiently for a tune they like are graduates Gregg Workman and Bryan Wilburn, sophomore Missy Johnson, and Graduate Brenda Johnson.

Departing from the dance floor are couples who attended the 1982 Prom.

Posing for photographers after being named prom royalty are Graduates Jill Adams, Jennifer Griffith, Kim Barton, and Pam Motsenbocker.

Dancing the night away are couples who attended the 1982 Prom.

Noch Einmal are the victors once again

Muncie Central's annual bike race proved to be successful this year with 15 bike teams and 5 trike teams.

There were very few changes in the bike race, however, each team was responsible for helping with statistics.

Noch Einmal won the event for the second consecutive year. Members of the team included Seniors Sally Feick, Rodney Rickert, Steve Shick, and Greg Smith. Pit crew members on the victorious team were Senior Holly Gilkison, and Junior Carole Long.

The Bunson Burners finished second, members on the team included Sophomores, Drake Hoops, Victor Lewis, Brian Routh, and Gary Webber.

Chairperson for the race was graduate, Liz Muterspaugh.

Following the bike race was a dance sponsored by Student Council.

Maria Harris, a Senior who was a member on the bike race committee stated, "overall participation was a great deal higher than in the past, I felt it was a complete success."

All eyes forward as bike race participants listen to last minute instructions.

"Clear the way I'm coming through," exclaims Graduate Ken Miller.

Breaking away are members of the teams that participated in the bike race.

Kick back and relax appears to be what Junior Roger Wells is doing as Junior Jeff Teal supplies the RPM's in the trike race.

How Sweet It Is appears to be the expression of the victors as they display their trophy for the second consecutive year.

An S.O.S. sign for many students, this sign enabled students to seek help from their guidance counselors.

Signs providing Info. could be seen in the school. This one could be found in the library.

Yea Rah spirit signs — these signs were provided by the cheerleaders to back our Cats.

Signs, signs, and more signs

Signs, signs and more signs could be found all over Muncie Central, each reading a specific message for the student.

Some signs were helpful in directing students to a designated place they were to be. Some of these signs included the breaded Dean's Office, the Dispensary, and the Guidance Office.

Then there were those which revealed messages to various athletic teams and the student body to help get them fired up for the game.

Oh! And of course those signs which distinguished the Ladies and Mens restrooms.

Probably the most popular of all the signs was the EXIT for this meant that it was time to go home at the end of the day.

Have you ever imagined what it would be like without all of those colorful signs? The school would be a very bare place.

Signs, Signs, Signs everywhere could be seen on the bulletin board in the Junior-Senior hall.

Sign of relief for many female students at Muncie Central, especially the mirrors in the restroom for tanning.

Men Only were the only people allowed to occupy this area.

For a Caring Cause — Student Council's sign shows the area where most of our school activities are planned by our school representatives.

Adding the final touches are members of the Junior Class before the beginning of the parade.

"Like I'm sure, these streamers are all tangled up," probably is what Sophomores Andrea Voisard and Selena Williams are saying.

Showing their team spirit are members of football team.

Homecoming "82" provided a colorful view

There couldn't have been a more beautiful day than October 1, 1982 when Muncie Central's Homecoming took place. There wasn't a cloud in the sky.

This year's theme, "You ought to be in pictures," was carried out through many bright colors and various movie titles as themes for floats. The Sophomore class won the float competition with the theme, Endless Victory."

This year's Special Events were held Thursday night. There were many different booths featured, some of them included the kissing booth, probably the most popular of all the booths. There was power puff football game, and there were many different kinds of food. There was everything from pretzels to pizza.

Highlighting special events was the crowning of the Queen and King. Senior Robin Spangler was crowned 1982 Homecoming Queen with Kevin Seramur named King.

A bonfire and a movie, "The Wiz," were also some of the main attractions.

Even though we were defeated in the football game, spirits among students remained high at the dance sponsored by Student Council. The Spectacular Electric Dance Company provided the music.

Anyone who was involved in float building, special events, or just participating by going to the parade, game, and dance will never forget Homecoming 1982.

Easing on down the road appears to be what Muncie Central's marching band is doing during the Homecoming parade.

Endless Victories proved to be victorious as the winning float for the sophomore class.

Waving with their winning smiles are Seniors Robin Spangler and Kevin Seramur.

Chow time favorite part of the day for many

Food, a four letter word we can't live without. Central students were offered a wide variety of foods to choose from this year.

Some Centralites were worried about keeping a trim figure, so they usually ate light. Then there were those who preferred to eat excessive amounts of food.

Manners and eating habits were also varied among students, some were not so pleasant.

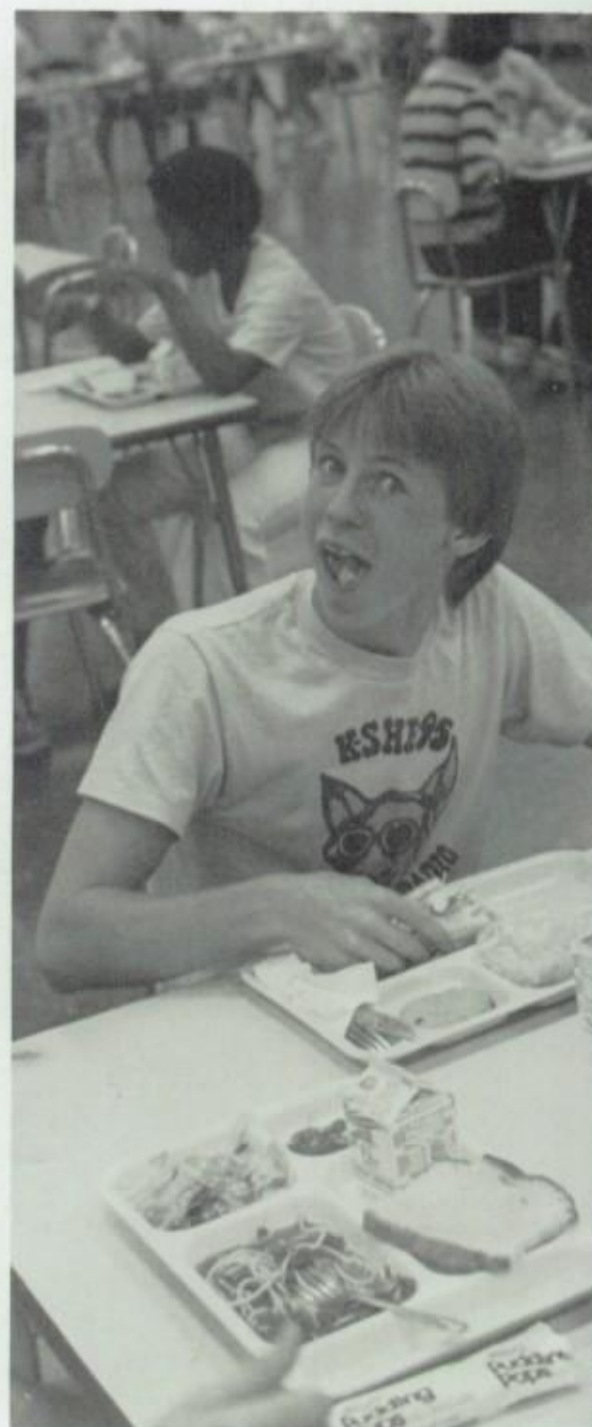

There were many differences among tastes also. Some put ketchup on their pizza, while others preferred mustard on their fries.

Who we ate with also showed the differences among CHS students. Sometimes one could find 20 students eating at one table for lunch, while at another table one might find a quiet little twosome.

Even after all of these differences among tastes, manners, or how much one ate, we all had one thing in common — none of us could wait for that very first bite.

OOOH! What is this? Some foods at Muncie Central were never seen or tasted by students, here sophomore Patty Long looks confused about what she is about to eat.

Who said talking with your mouth full was easy? Freshman Keith Fairley seems to be having trouble with talking.

So that will be two sirloins and two ribeyes
 ... Senior Vicki Vincent prepares to serve customers at Ponderosa.

Pretending to be busy is Senior Tonya Kitchen, fulfilling her office duties at the Muncie Community Schools office.

Baggin' em up and shippin' em out is Senior Dan Garrett as he performs his daily chores at Marsh.

Everybody at C.H.S. was workin' for the weekend!

Money, whether it was spent on dances, games, or just going out and messing around with your friends, was essential for all students at Muncie Central. All of this green stuff could be earned through various part-time jobs.

Many of these jobs were available through programs at Muncie Central such as DECA, HERO and OEA. Some were found on an individual basis though.

Fast food places were the most common of all to find a CHS student employed;

however, there were a few who were employed at clothing stores or offices.

Holding one of these jobs might have caused a few conflicts or sacrifices. Some students had to work on the nights of football or basketball games and dances. It was usually difficult to ask off for these special nights.

There was, however, a major advantage and that was having all of that green stuff to spend without hitting on Mom or Dad for it.

Flippin' burgers can be fun seems to be the expression on senior Bill Carr's face.

Big Mac, fry. . . and what else? Scott Gates, Senior, takes down an order at McDonalds.

Senior bandanna man Rick Haywood shows off the preppy look with his button down and bandanna.

These stompin' boots could be seen on the feet of many CHS students as well as in many display windows.

Taking time out from her work to show off her monogram sweater is senior Colleen Lynch.

Fashion scene was totally awesome at C.H.S.

A few changes took place in the fashion scene among CHS students this year. The punk rock craze hit Muncie Central students, as well as the traditional preppy look.

The punk rock look could be seen in the way people wore their hair, dressed, and even the way they talked, I mean totally!

The hair was usually short and layered with some adding red or purple coloring to get the total affect of the punk look.

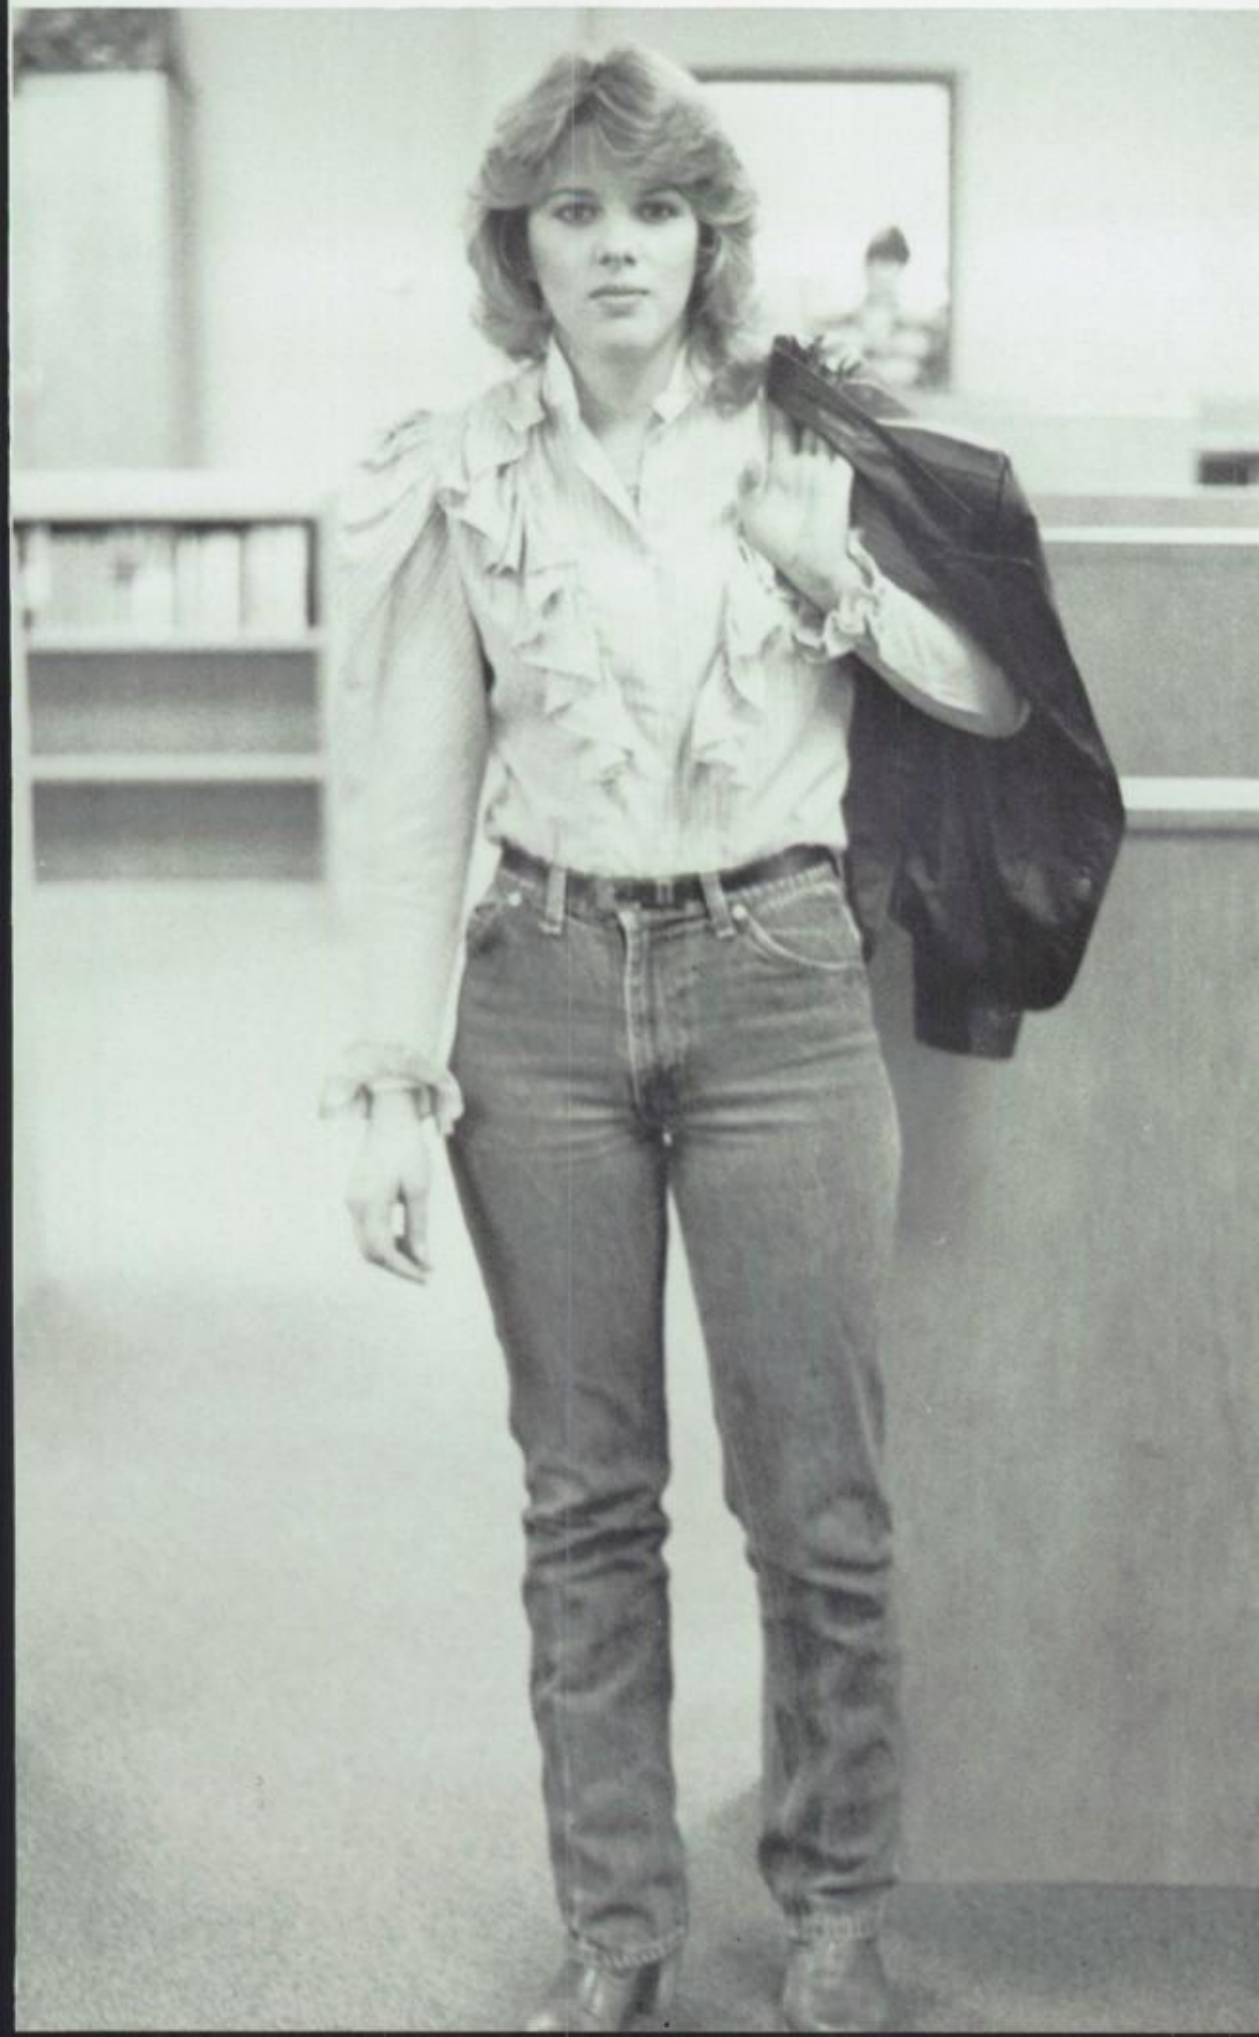

A variety of skirt lengths could be seen.

T-shirt dresses, bright colored hose, and bright colored make-up all combined to get the look also.

Then there was the ever popular traditional preppy look. Blazers, skirts, button downs, and penny loafers highlighted this look.

Boots were very popular again with girls as well as guys. High heels, tennis shoes, ballet shoes were all popular too.!

All of these different styles combined to make Muncie Central have a look all its own.

Bumping out in her sweatshirt and jeans is junior Mimi Ali.

Workin' for the weekend is Senior Jennifer King in her concert t-shirt.

Posing for photographers in her best duds is Senior Barb Fitzgerald.

Friends were the best at C.H.S.!!!

When we think of a good foundation of our high school days we would naturally think of our friends, besides our education of course.

Our friends and dates were those who we shared the good and bad times with, whether it was a homecoming victory or an "F" on our algebra test. We all laughed or cried together at one time or another.

A friend was someone we could depend on for a ride to the game or trust with out deepest, darkest secrets.

Then there were of course our boy friends or girl friends. When you think of those people you usually remember all of the dances you danced and all of the movies you attended together.

All of these people bring back fond memories, Having friends was very important to CHS students without them who could we have shared the good and bad times with during our years at Muncie Central?

Togetherness . . . is best displayed here by Seniors Bonnie Swhier and Diana Newlin.

We're not camera shy — Juniors Carlos Smith and Sharon Whitelow take a break from their busy schedules to pose for photographers

Clownin' around in the halls are Senior Hollis Gates and Junior Kathy Haywood.

Outside of school Cats find the good times

The sign of the good times for many Central students was the golden arches, after a game or dance.

I'm sure at one time or another we have all attended a dance and then maybe gone to our favorite hangout.

Dances were a place where we could go with friends after a game and celebrate a Bearcat victory. They were a time to just get wild and crazy, or maybe to slow dance with that special someone. Various kinds of music could be danced to everything from the Go-Gos, Van Halen or Rick James could be heard.

After the dance we weren't quite finished with the night so we headed on out to McDonald's or somewhere else to be with friends, get a bite to eat and gossip.

Almost anytime after a big game or dance you could walk in a C.H.S. hangout and see a familiar face.

These things were a very important part of a Central student's extracurricular activities. We will never forget the dances or that special place where we shared all of the good times with our friends.

We're all booked up at the Phone Booth Inn. Five Central students spend the night in a phone booth on a Friday night.

Did he really say that? Senior Jill Hall and Junior Theresa Quirk take time out to gossip.

Pinball Wizard. Senior Jenni Phillips finds time to play a game of pinball after a game.

Sharing a ride on the Chevette express are Central students as they prepare to go out on a Saturday night.

Let's groove tonight are what many people did on the weekends while attending a C.H.S. dance.

Say cheese please. Junior Donna Dale is caught by photographers at her favorite hangout, McDonalds.

C.H.S. students and faculty pump up players

When it came to backing our Cats everyone contributed heavily to school spirit. It could be seen among students, faculty, and the decorations which were displayed throughout school.

Muncie Central's band was one of the main sources of spirit at football and basketball games. They played everything from the school song to "Let's Groove Tonight."

Spirit could be seen among students by the way they dressed. Usually spirit could be detected among students by various shades of purple on their bodies.

Faculty got heavily involved in pep sessions, performing various skits which aided in promoting school spirit.

Decorations usually came in the form of painted signs hung in the student center.

Various ribbons, buttons, t-shirts, hats, mittens, and bumper stickers could be purchased from the bookstore to boost school spirit.

All of these things combined showed our true color PURPLE!!! These things enabled us to maintain that Bearcat tradition and pride.

Firing up the student body is head coach Gar Cox as he helps lead the school song.

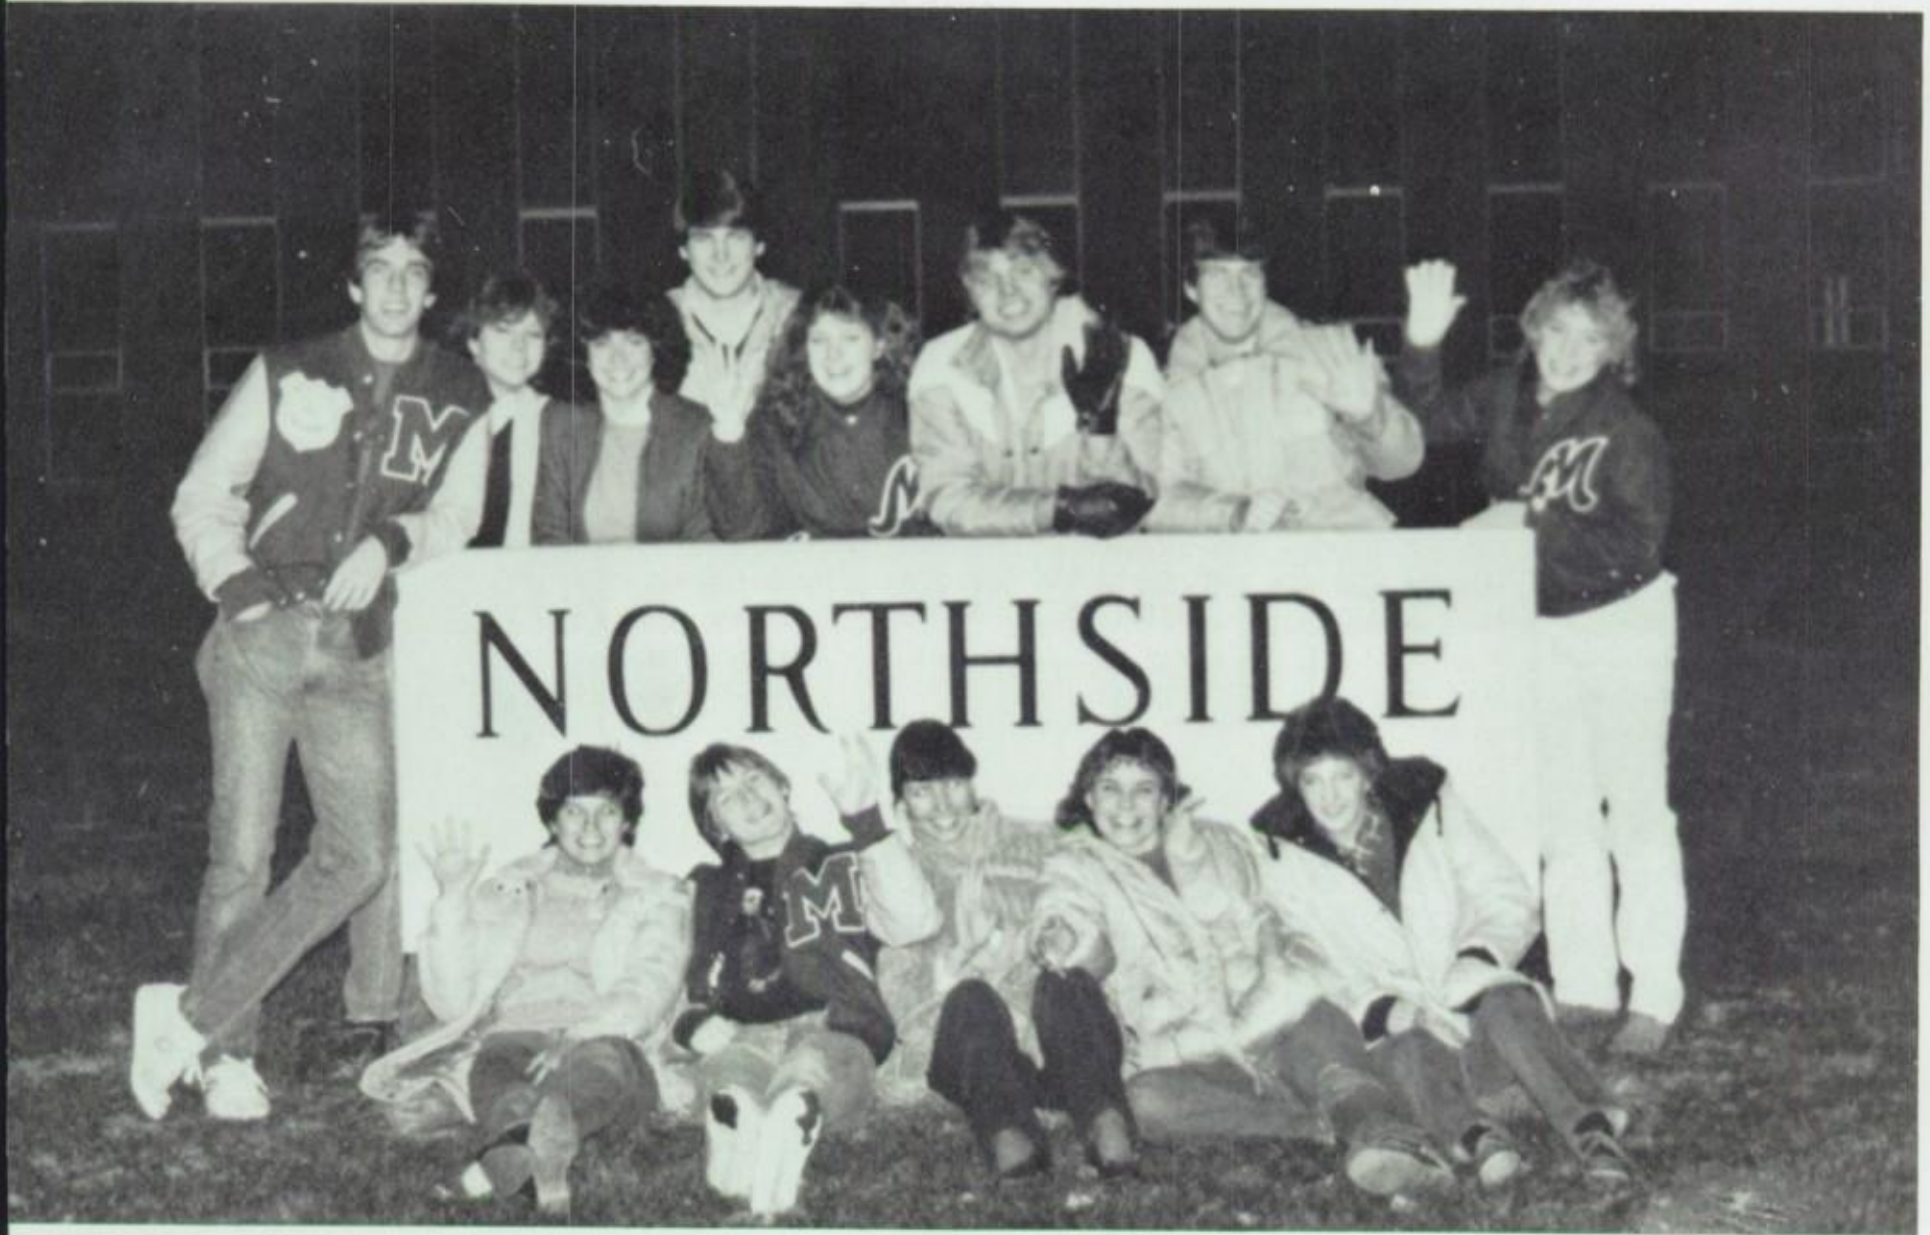

The sign that said it all for many Bearcat athletic teams is this sign which was displayed in the homecoming parade.

I'm Backing our Cats all the way Sophomore Jason Wilkinson portrays the beloved Bearcat during the homecoming parade.

Blessing the preps with their Bearcat presence are students of CHS.

No Sweat appears to be the expression on Junior Erin McDonald's face after another Bearcat victory.

CHS Cats Are The Best. Varsity cheerleader Shenita Byrd cheers the cats on to another victory.

Muncie Central — a beautiful school inside and out.

Muncie Central was a beautiful school inside and out. It offered many things for high school students.

Muncie Central was considered one of the nicest schools in the state. Its modern facilities provided many opportunities for students. Some of these included the computer programs for those wishing to pursue a career in computers.

Muncie Central's library had available sources for almost any topic a student needed to pursue.

The business department offered a variety of classes, typing, office machines, and data processing, just to name a few.

The foreign language department contained a lab. This enabled students to express themselves in the foreign language which they were studying.

The open concept was very popular with students. It gave them a feeling of freedom.

You could say Muncie Central High School, along with its people, was one of the highest quality schools anywhere in the state.

What a view. The aerial view depicts our beautiful school and its surroundings along the White River.

Peek-a-boo . . . Senior Troy Hensley moves a T.V. and various films in T.V. retrieval.

Studying hard. Freshman Michele Feick prefers to do her homework in the library.

Number please . . . Senior Mark McKinney listens to a recording in French class.

Video mania strikes students

Did you ever see anyone whose eyes jumped involuntarily from side to side? Did their hands clutch and unclutch as if they were having a muscle spasm? If so, you were looking at a victim of the wackiest craze in entertainment, video games. Millions of people, young and old, enjoyed playing these video games. They went to arcades as often as possible to watch a little guy with a head and no body get lunch. They also enjoyed seeing a fun-looking creature in a green suit, complete with warts, jump across a bunch of Detroit rejects to get back to his home in the swamp.

Video games were among the most exciting, most popular and most enjoyable ways to blow your hard-sponged or hard-earned dough. Bearcats worked harder, or maybe even picked up extra jobs or picked extra pockets just to get enough money to buy tokens for video games.

Playing video games could also have been great exercise. You may not have ended up with muscles like Lou Ferrigno, but you might have gotten a pretty good workout by just breaking one high score. For just one quarter, you could have gotten a callous on your finger plus an ache in your shoulder. Now, how much would you have paid? But wait, there's more. For that same quarter, you could also ruin your eyes. What a deal!

Playing their favorite video game are juniors David Lafferty and Jeff Lacey.

Vote the Bearcat way said our Vice Principal Stan Landfair when he ran for State Representative.

"I'm out of work." Long job lines became a familiar scene for Delaware County residents in 1983.

ET and Journey popular for many

Various events which took place in the past few years have affected many teenagers' views. The survey which was given in the fall brought out a general consensus among C.H.S. students.

In March, 1981 an assassination attempt was made on President Reagan by John Hinckley. Hinckley injured several in the process. Many people in the United States felt Hinckley should be sentenced to the death penalty, instead he was determined to be insane and confined to a mental institution. As a result, students here felt the insanity plea was too lenient, gun control should be enforced and capital punishment should be reinstated.

On the subject of the legalization of marijuana and the lowering of the drinking age, the consensus was pretty well even. Some believed that if these were changed it would cause destruction in homes, society, and within oneself if they were given such options. Others felt marijuana was no more harmful than alcohol so why shouldn't it be legalized?

Entertainment — who can live without it? Here are the results of the most popular people in the entertainment world among C.H.S. students.

In the music world, the favorite recording artist was Hoosier born John Cougar. Everyone went crazy over "Jack and Diane," and "Hurts So Good." This was probably one of the most difficult questions for many people because there were so many different kinds of music. Another question that was difficult was "What is your favorite group?" Journey won this honor.

Jane Fonda and Tom Selleck were voted best actress and actor. Fonda's performance in "On Golden Pond" was unforgettable. Tom Selleck, the dark handsome detective on "Magnum P.I.," won the heart of our voters at Muncie Central.

Finally the movie "E.T." captured everyone's hearts. Who could resist that tiny little creature with those big blue eyes?

This survey was conducted because we, the MAGICIAN staff, feel a yearbook is a record book and to be complete we feel a survey must be included. It also gave students an opportunity to express themselves about current issues and the surrounding world.

Local Events

After nearly three years of work, the student council succeeded its goal of installing a stoplight at the intersection of Walnut and Columbus. The need for a signal climaxed last spring when a Central student was severely injured at this location. The light was installed in the fall in order to regulate heavy traffic before and after school.

Behind Anderson, Muncie was named the second highest unemployed city in the nation several times during the year. Job opportunities, especially for teenagers, were scarce. At Christmas, many homerooms and organizations collected food baskets for needy families. Government programs such as the "Great Cheese Giveaway" aided the unemployed of the area.

Voters were given the opportunity to express their dissatisfaction of government policies in the November elections. Vice-Principal Stan Landfair ran for State Representative while basketball coach Bill Harrell ran for Democratic party chairman. Robert Redford, campaigning for Representative Phil Sharp, melted hearts at a Muncie appearance.

ROBERT REDFORD!! Yes, that is Robert Redford. He made a campaign stop for Representative Phil Sharp on October 19 and Muncie will never be the same.

National events Outside the middle

As 1982 ended the new year began, the distressed state of our nation's economy, the possibility of a nuclear war, and the Tylenol scare caused Central students to view the future with apprehension.

In early fall, the rate of unemployment registered at 12%, the highest percentage since the great depression. The number of business failures increased sharply; the auto industry suffered enormous losses. The nation itself had a budget deficit of billions and billions.

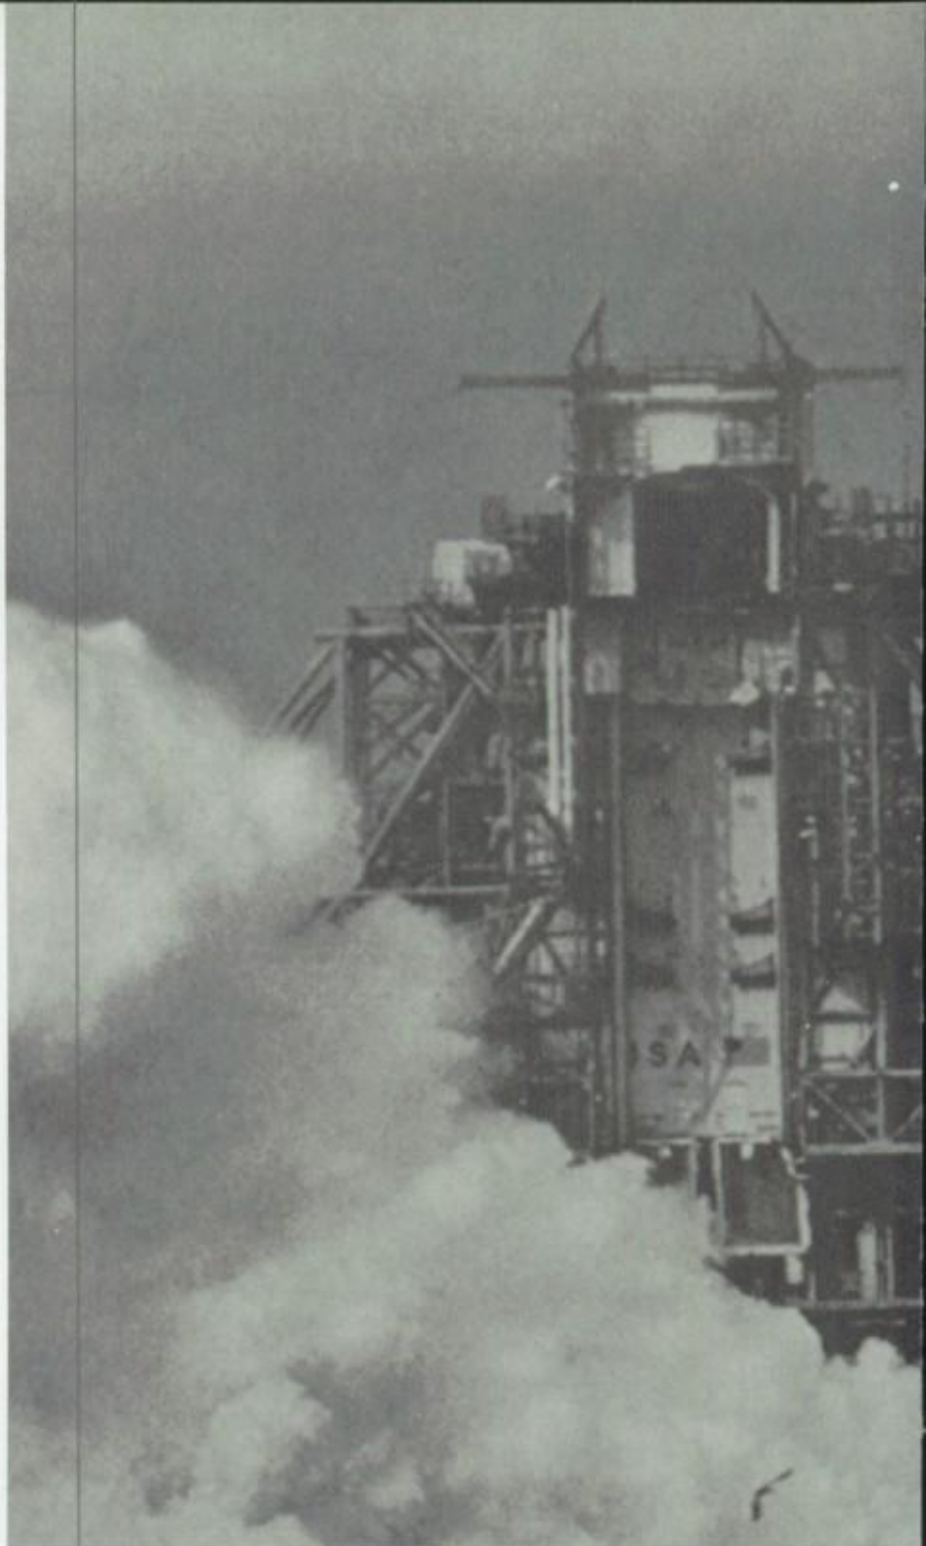

By January, however, the rate of inflation and interest rates dropped sharply, and the stock market recorded record high selling. The nation appeared to be, in President Reagan's words, "on the mend," though it was proving to be a slow, painful recover.

Nightmares became reality when the Tylenol scare became a national threat. When six individuals died from cyanide poisoning in Chicago, mimic killings emerged throughout the nation. Congress swiftly passed legislation which enforced stricter packaging regulations and safety seals.

America's expansion of their space and defense capacities heightened considerably when the space shuttle Columbia launched successfully from Kennedy Space Center.

Many Americans protested the increase in military spending, but others felt it was necessary.

Keeping tabs on the hardware. An orbital analyst in Colorado Springs tracks Soviet spy satellite Cosmos 1402 before it enters the earth's atmosphere.

Looking for jobs. Approximately 2,500 job applicants apply for 100 operator trainee positions for a refinery in Chester, Pa.

3, 2, 1 BLASTOFF! The new Space Shuttle orbiter Challenger tests its engines at the Kennedy Space Center.

Painkiller turned killer. Tylenol tablets laced with cyanide touched off national panic.

Making his point during an interview is Senator Ted Kennedy. Kennedy announced his decision not to run for president in 1984 in December.

Anniversary celebration. On the 10 year anniversary of legalized abortion, supporters stage a counter demonstration of the Right to Life Committee.

Outside Looking In Bearcats

If an outsider would have entered Central, and walked down a hall at a certain time of day, he might have observed several occurrences. Bearcats were walking, talking, hurrying to class, laughing and whistling, yelling to friends. Administrators were directing traffic, conversing with students, and keeping the peace. The outsider would have discovered that a typical day at Central was actually a unique experience.

The student body was divided into four distinct classes. Seniors, at the "top of the heap," enjoyed the benefits of Senioritis while they eagerly awaited graduation day. Juniors and Sophomores jumped into the high school scene with experience. Freshmen, on the other hand, were satisfied to just "get their feet wet." With sincere dedication, teachers and faculty seized the responsibility to teach us how to develop our mental capabilities.

Throughout the year, we were constantly reminded that the people in our lives were important. The people, whether required to teach or to learn, made 1983 special.

Yeah, we bad. While they wait for the homecoming parade to begin, members of the men's tennis team show who's #1.

School's out! Junior Katie Kantz realizes how happy she is that the school day is over.

Administration maintains efficiency

Our school's administration consisted of various departments and various persons who knew their jobs well.

The Principal, Vice-Principal, the Deans, and Athletic Director were the persons who made up the administration at Muncie Central.

Also included as part of MC's administration were the Superintendent and Assistant Superintendent of Schools and the Muncie Community School Board. Although they were not visible in our day-to-day routine, they helped contribute to the efficiency of our school.

While preparing for the agenda, Superintendent of Schools, Donald Slauter, poses for the photographer.

Students can always count on teachers

Although many students could be heard throughout the year saying, "I hate teachers," teachers were actually many students' best friends.

One could always count on certain teachers to know the right answer, give experienced advice when it was needed, and just to always be there when one needed someone to talk to.

Some teachers acted like it was "just a job," but others took the time to sit down and explain certain concepts with students, in other words, to be a friend.

Many students appreciated the fact that teachers could be more than teachers — they could also be a friend.

Secretaries kept us informed all year

To the surprise of many students, Central's secretaries could be a great deal of help in a time of crisis.

Our secretaries were always full of helpful information. They always seemed to know where that certain person was that needed to be located.

These ladies might have felt they were unappreciated at times, but we all knew they could always be counted on and were very needed.

Busy, busy, busy! Mrs. Toni Rowray is busy writing another pass, one of the many jobs she has as dean secretary.

"Behind the scene" workers aid in festivities

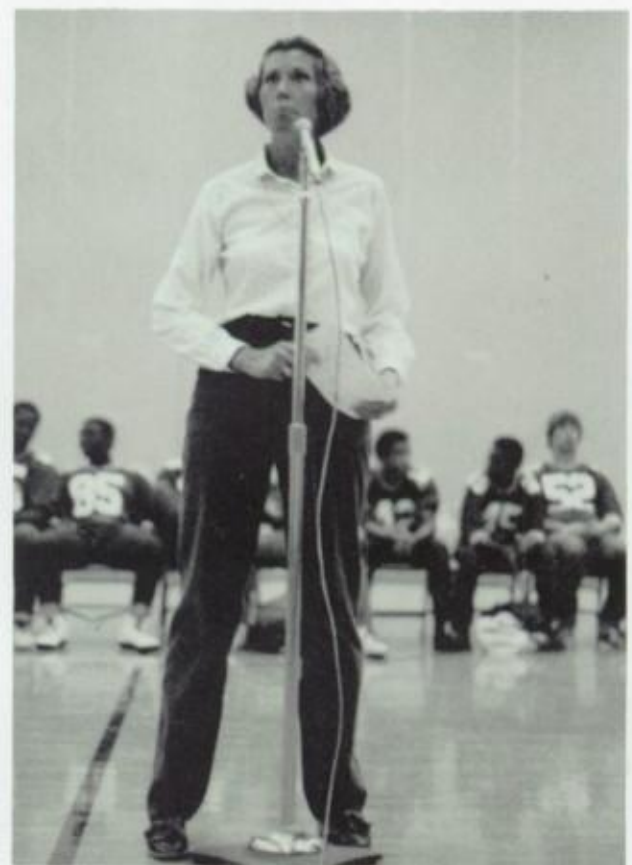

Muncie Central's custodians, security guards and cafeteria workers deserved a great deal of thanks, but rarely received it.

They were the persons who kept the school clean and neat-looking, provided the student body with their daily meal, and made sure the students didn't get out of line.

Their jobs proved to be a very big task; however, these workers made it look like a piece of cake.

Now listen here! Mr. Jimmy Patterson, security guard, makes sure the students understand the rules.

Pleeeeeease!!!! Mrs. Penny Seramur, dental technician, patiently waits for the students to quiet down.

Yeah, I'm bad . . . Mr. Sonny Burks, security guard thinks he's cool as he sits atop his cycle.

MACC prepares students

Being prepared for a career was what many students knew nothing about. That was where the Muncie Area Career Center faculty came in. Their jobs weren't easy because teaching a trade required a lot of skill, patience and dedication, all of which the MACC faculty possessed.

Are you talking to me? Mr. Sherman Johnson is interrupted while teaching a graphic design class.

The students were taught trades that ranged from child care to auto mechanics. These trades helped prepare many students for acquiring good jobs.

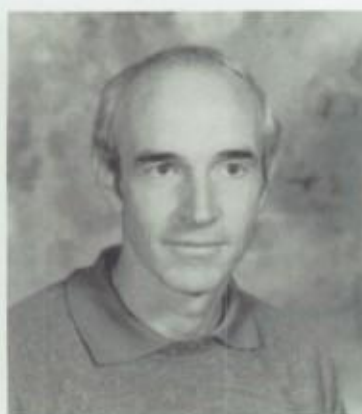

The Career Center provided students with the opportunity to learn and gain experience in their chosen fields.

Busy, busy, busy. Ms. Susan Koeoke straightens her desk in the business lab.

See that? Mr. Dan Shepperd advises a student how to improve his layout design.

Seniors wonder about their future

I don't know, maybe . . . Senior Rodney Rickert is caught contemplating his future.

As graduation approached, many seniors began wondering about their future. College? Jobs? Marriage? Many questions entered their minds. To some, it was something they had been looking forward to for a long time, while to others, it was a scary subject.

A few entered college, while others found jobs, got married, or just "took easy" for awhile.

Most seniors were uncertain about what they wanted to do in life; this was what was so scary. "Where do I go from here?" was the thought on many students' minds.

This was the beginning of the rest of their lives. While some were ready for it, others were not.

Wake up . . . Robin Reed, Senior, seems to be concentrating very hard on what she's reading.

A typical day at the top of the heap

What did the typical day of a senior at Muncie Central consist of? Was it really any different from that of an underclassman? In some ways, yes, but in most ways it was the same.

Every morning at 6 a.m. the ever dependable alarm clock awoke one to start of a new, work-filled day.

After becoming awake and getting ready to go, one would hop into his or her car, which was what most underclassmen did not possess, and whiz off to school.

The school day was mostly the same — work, gossip, etc. Some seniors were dismissed at 11 a.m. to rush off to their jobs, while others had to stay the entire day.

Classes were also different. Seniors were given the privilege of taking government, sociology, and all of those "prepare for college" courses that the guidance counselors would somehow manipulate into one's schedule.

When the 2:25 p.m. bell rang, it was either off to work, after school for sports, or just out "messaging around." Then one went home to either study for tomorrow's test, which seniors had many of, or off to bed.

Working for an "A" is Senior Sandy Harper.

Seniors face future

After seniors receive their high school diplomas, one of the questions that arises is "What is next?"

Students of our generation have many choices and opportunities. For students who want to further their education, there is a great variety of colleges and universities to choose from. Being accepted into these institutions and earning good grades, however, turns out to be more difficult.

Most colleges require students to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test, and many only accept certain scores.

Students also may apply for the various scholarships offered. This is not an easy task either, because applying is a very hard and tedious job.

Other seniors might choose a vocational school, which enables them to train in their chosen field, and join the work force later.

Still others enter the job market right after high school. Some students prefer this, for it gives them the chance to be out in the world and on their own for the first time.

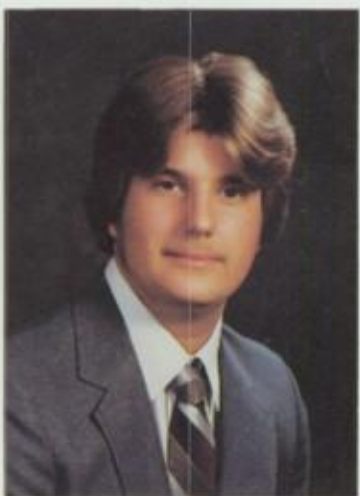

Graduating from Central and moving on to new things is very exciting, but it is also very terrifying. Most seniors don't want to leave their high school friends and fun times behind. But, for all these great times spent in high school, there are many and more in the years to come.

Dedication and determination pay off

Finishing at the top of your class was very difficult at times, but was truly a major accomplishment, and worth all the hard work.

The top thirty students of the Class of '83, listed on this page, worked long and hard to achieve this status.

We, the members of the MAGICIAN, wish to congratulate each and every person who received a "top thirty" honor, and wish them the best of luck in the future.

Prom consumes much of junior year

Much of the year for the Class of '84 was involved with planning, financing, and decorating for the 1983 Prom. The theme for this year's dance was "Just the Two of Us." Homeroom was used for many of the committee meetings.

The year began for the Class of '84 with a place in the float competition. Many fund raising projects were held throughout the year, including dances and poster sales.

Members of the junior student body elected Chris Hayward as president, Mimi Ali as vice-president, Margi Beebe as secretary, and Carole Long as treasurer.

The class sponsors were Rebecca Bly, Susie Miller, and Duane Huffman.

Homeroom students are found outside while they participate in homecoming activities this fall.

Homerooms: pro and con

A new idea came into effect this year. On Tuesdays and Thursdays of every week, all students participated in homeroom classes. These classes met between third and fourth hour for approximately 30 minutes.

The homeroom classes were designed to help students in learning new things, but mostly learning about themselves. In some classes students were given ditto sheets concerning various subjects. Some of those were setting goals (and following through with them). Others were given a real life situation and were asked to write out what they would do. Still others were busy filling out questionnaires concerning school functions and world events.

Senior Pat Clohessy commented on the homeroom situation, "I don't see any redeeming purpose of the homeroom idea."

On the other hand, since the homeroom idea is basically aimed toward freshmen and sophomores this first year, it has a much larger effect on them.

"It's a good time to inform students on upcoming events that will take place at Muncie Central," states Michele Feick, freshman. "I do feel that homeroom period should offer a larger variety of activities, so that it will draw more interest from both teachers and students."

Sophs endure busy year

The Class of '85 was very busy throughout the year, having a wide variety of fund-raising projects for next year's prom.

Among the class money making projects were dances and the selling of trash bags and candy.

The sophomores won the float competition during homecoming and the hall decorating competition at Christmas.

Officers included Victor Lewis, president; Gretchen Warner, vice-president; Amy Dye, secretary; and Angie Terry, treasurer.

Sponsors were Charles Willis, Karl King, and Tamara Redden.

Rush rocks Bearcats at Indy

What provided a thrilling piece of entertainment, at a high price? Concerts, that's what! Bearcats looked forward to that special evening when their own favorite band performed their own brand of music. Bands such as REO Speedwagon, Rush, and Johnny Cougar passed through Indianapolis, as well as the Who, on their final concert tour.

A concert was the perfect way to have a good time. Fellow fans would steal a car, pack in, and get rowdie. Dates could look forward to sway to "their song" performed just for them.

Despite the memories and good times, the costs of a night of music soared in 1982-1983. Ticket prices, depending on the popularity of the group, ranged from $8.50 to $14.00. The popular concert jerseys, and other such memorabilia were a must, and go-go juice also had to be added to the inflated tab.

Come on. Sophomore Kim Greer awaits help from Mr. Sloan, business teacher, on a confusing problem.

Frosh begin looking toward the future

It's never easy being the new kid on the block, and Central's freshman class found that to be true. Getting involved in the variety of programs available in high school could be a nerve-racking and sometimes difficult experience.

But, if they were hesitant and nervous at first, it didn't take them long to get under way.

Under the direction of sponsors Cherylann Renner and Judy Burns, this group began their long journey toward graduation by having money-raising projects. They also worked on the homecoming float, which came in fourth this year, and Christmas hall decorating.

Class officers were Tommy Langham, president; Amy Hendrix, vice-president; Cheryl Case, secretary; and Karen Wickliffe, treasurer.

MC gets a touch of Sweden

Central had a new addition to this year's senior class. Jonas Albage was an exchange student from Sweden who came to the United States for a year of study. Jonas found that schools in the two countries were different in many ways. In Sweden each person has about twelve classes, but doesn't attend them each day. Jonas also stated that unlike Central, Swedish schools don't have many social or extracurricular activities.

Adjusting to Muncie was only slightly difficult for Jonas. He thought the foods were mainly the same, but our English was confusing. Even though he had studied British English, the slight variation made it a little more challenging.

Jonas liked watching football, although he didn't understand the rules exactly. In Sweden Jonas enjoys sailing, running, skiing, and playing badminton.

Jonas enjoyed learning about our ways of life, and commented that his stay in America was very nice. Jonas hopes to return to the U.S. in the future.

Although not a new addition to Central, Jenni Rust, junior, returned from her year abroad in Sweden. Not knowing the language made Jenni's move difficult, but not as difficult as she imagined. Living in Stockholm, the capital of Sweden, Jenni discovered things to be very modern, and people had a "do your own thing" attitude.

While in Sweden, Jenni did a lot of cross country and downhill skiing. She also enjoyed watching soccer and ice hockey, the major sports in Sweden.

When asked about her experience in Sweden, Jenni commented, "It was the best experience anyone could ever get. I would recommend that anyone who is interested in meeting different people and learning a new language and culture should consider a year abroad. If someone gave me a ticket and said my plane left in five minutes, I would definitely be on it!"

Comparing notes . . . juniors Jeni Rust and Jonas Albage are caught comparing Swedish experiences.

Our Purple Pride Sports

Muncie Central has built a flawless tradition in their sports program that few high schools can match. Inside the locker room, or out on the tracks, Bearcats always gave it everything they've got.

Although every team might not have posted a winning record, they lived up to the Bearcat reputation. Athletes devoted time and dedication to be a part of this tradition, and coaches didn't expect any less from them.

A renewal of purple spirit awoke in '82-83." Fans and cheerleaders enjoyed decorating lockers, getting crazy for spirit days, and flooding the fieldhouse in a sea of purple 'n white on Friday nights.

Athletes and fans alike loved to show their "purple pride."

Bottorff's batsmen win sectional

The baseball team won the sectional title by edging Monroe Central 3-2 before falling short by one run in the regional game against Richmond.

Graduate Dan Abrell set single season and career records for base stealing. He also led the team in doubles and runs.

Graduate Greg Lee was atop the team in batting average, hits, and runs batted in (RBI's).

Lee and Graduate Keith Taylor received All-Conference awards with Lee also receiving the team's MVP award.

Graduate Brian Wilburn and Sophomore Tom Abrell combined to hurl 13 of the Cat's 18 victories.

And, after 12 years of coaching aggressive, winning baseball, the leader of the 'Cats, coach Gene Bottorff, resigned.

Cats "run away" with sectional title

The 1982 men's track team had another fine year.

The sectional champs advanced two relay teams and even individuals to the regional competition, where they placed tenth. Graduate Todd VanWinkle and senior Richard Young then advanced to state, where VanWinkle placed 4th in the pole vault and Young placed 7th in the 100 meter run.

New sectional records were recorded by VanWinkle and Young.

The outstanding athlete on track was awarded to Young and the outstanding in field was awarded to VanWinkle.

The 1982 girl trackers' record of 4-4 does not fairly represent the kind of year they had, as many school records were broken.

New records were set by junior Pat Phillips in the shot-put, graduate Mary Fickle in the low hurdles, sophomore Connie Sloss in the 100 and 200 meters, sophomore Sonda Norris in the 400 meter, and the team senior, Mary Beth Lambert with juniors Helen Seals and Cheryl Thompson, and Norris in the 1600 relay.

"The girls worked very hard to get personal records and school records," said Coach Rebecca Dietrich.

Exhausted but happy is Sophomore Cathy Haan as she is congratulated by her teammates.

Skimming over the bar in perfect form is Sophomore high jumper Amy Cartwright.

Ready, set, go! Sophomore sprinter Connie Sloss explodes out of the blocks for a 100 meter victory.

Girl netters finish strong at 9-4

The girls tennis team "served up" a fine 9-4 record in 1982. They lost in the sectional finals against Northside after sweeping Union City and Winchester in the first and second rounds.

The MVP of the squad was Senior Jenni Phillips, who played at number 1 singles. Seniors Lisa Farling, Christy Shurr, Maria Harris, and Jill Hall rounded out the singles line-up while Seniors Kim Gishler and Holly Gilkison formed the number one doubles team.

Juniors Amy Wheeldon and Carol Long made up the number two doubles team.

The teammate award went to Senior Jill Hall.

Service ace ... Senior Jenni Phillips displays perfect form in her service.

Net Approach ... Number 2 player, Senior Lisa Farling, and number 3 player, Senior Christy Shurr, say "cheese".

Taking a breather from doubles action is Junior doubles player Amy Wheeldon.

Miller Time ... Coach Dixon and his team total up scores at the end of the day.

Following through after a fairway hit is Graduate Greg Moore.

"Moore" than average — city champs!

The Central golfers ended the season at 6-7, but coach James Dixon's squad did shoot well enough to earn the city title. The 'Cats placed 6th in both NCC and sectional competition.

Graduate Greg Moore, who qualified for the Regional, received a full-ride scholarship to South Carolina State University.

Moore also received the Most Valuable Player award while senior Jeff Hoogenboom was voted Most Improved.

Dixon's team consisted of Moore, Hoogenboom, seniors Mike Moore, Todd Cravins, Craig Penix, Kevin Kalley, Derek Ludwig, and graduates Greg Reef, John Davis, and Steve Marsh.

Coach Dixon reflected, "Winning the city meet was definitely the highlight of the year."

Offering a little advice on the short putt is Graduate John Davis to Graduate Greg Reef.

Ree-deep ... Senior Derk Ludwig is not impersonating a frog, but rather lining up a 10-foot birdie putt.

Young Golfers Have "Stroke" Of Bad Luck

The girls golf team finished the year at 1-6, winning only against Monroe Central. Inexperience was the major setback as there were only two seniors among the seven member squad.

Senior Anne Edwards, who accidentally slung her nine-iron through a massive club window, won the Most Valuable Player award and also received the Putter award.

The other senior, Wendy Stanton, was voted the Teammate Award, which recognizes team spirit and leadership qualities. Laura Tucker was named Most Improved.

Stanton looks optimistically at next year's team, "I'd like to be around next year to watch the improvements over this year. This year was basically a rebuilding one so next year I think will be much more competitive."

Showing extreme concentration as she chips onto the green is Senior Wendy Stanton.

Cats "never gave up battle"

Our Bearcat football team was led by some solid playing Seniors, but that wasn't quite enough as they finished winless at 0-10.

Senior Kevin Shaw led the young, small 'Cats in tackles with 60 solos and Senior Mel Bryant led the squad in scoring with 12 points.

Key players on offense were the Branson brothers, Seniors DeWayne and DeJuan, who led the team in rushing and pass receiving, respectively.

Two leaders for next year's squad should be Juniors Jeff Cunnington and Keith Long. Cunnington won the starting quarterback role early in the season and responded well by throwing for 512 yards. Long was the second leading scorer with 11 points.

Individual awards given were: Most Valuable Player, Bryant; Most Tackles, Shaw; Most Valuable Back, DeJuan Branson; Most Valuable Lineman, Charles Crim, Senior.

Despite the record, first year coach, Gary Cox, remains optimistic for next year, "We will have to set out goals higher. Now we know we can be competitive. The next step is to reach out and earn a few victories."

Central sends Hall to state

Although the girls swimming team did finish without any victories, there were some very positive aspects of the team's season.

The girls kept treadin' water, but didn't sink as they improved with each meet and stroked their way to an eighth place finish in sectionals and a sixth place finish in the always tough NCC.

Individually, Jill Hall advanced all the way to state competition in the backstroke and also set a school record in the butterfly. Hall received the Mental Attitude Award, Mandy Thornburg walked away with the Most Determined Award, Judy Barnes got the Most Improved Upper-classman Award, and Michelle Feick won the Most Improved Freshman Award.

Even though they lacked the talent of other teams, they had at least as much character. Coach Rebecca Dietrich stated, "I don't think any other team could have shown more school spirit and pride than we did."

Stroking to another first is Senior Jill Hall. Jill finished third in sectionals with a personal best.

Coming up for air is Junior Trisha Shaw, as she swims freestyle.

At the end of a grueling practice is Michelle Feick, Freshman.

You got it! Senior Audrey Stratton receives a sixth place ribbon in individual medley for sectionals.

Langham, Lambert run to personal best

According to coach Robert McFall, his runners made a great deal of progress this year. Physically, they progressed by improving their times an average of 79 seconds from the first meet to the last meet. Steve Cooper cut his time by close to three minutes from his first meet to his finish at the Fort Wayne Invitational.

Tom Langham had eight personal records in his last nine meets and broke the 18 minute mark in his last effort.

"I have a great feeling of accomplishment in working with his team. I'm sure that they also are proud of their improvement," reflected McFall.

Special awards were given to Mike Long for Outstanding Runner, to Chris Brighton for Most Improved, and to Steve Cooper for Outstanding Freshman.

Seniors make for a successful season

Coach Jim Dixon, who considered his team "one of the most athletic and well-balanced teams I have ever had," watched his varsity group of eight seniors turn around a 6-8 season of a year ago into an impressive finish in '82.

In the singles positions, the Cats were led by Kevin Seramur, Brad Yohler, and Kevin Kalley.

Greg Smith and Dave Hammer, both NCC award winners, paired at one doubles team, while Pat Clohessy and Jeff Hoogenboom made up the other. John Powell served as an alternate.

The season came to a heart-breaking end as the 'Cats dropped a down-to-the-wire 3-2 match to Northside.

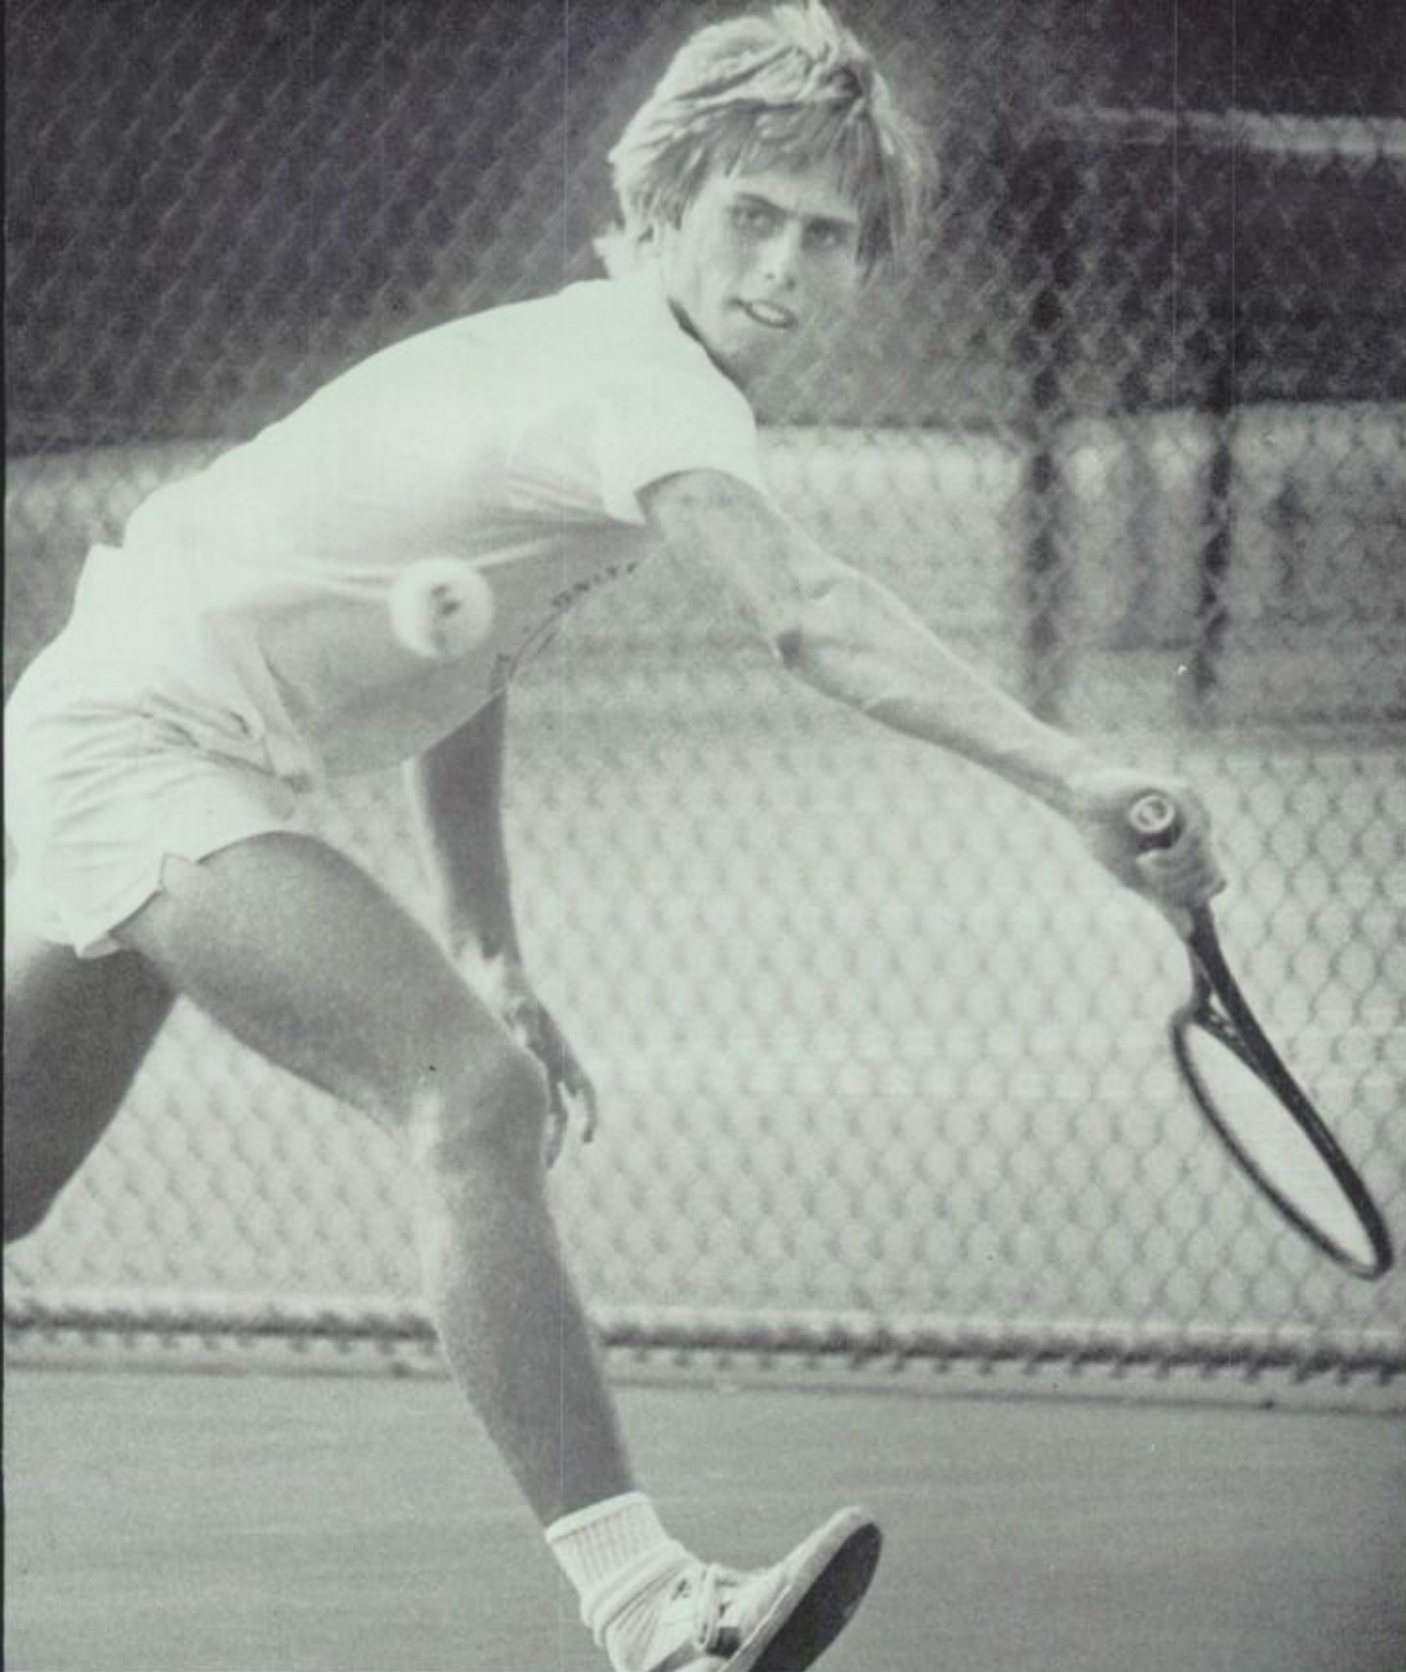

Going for "the notch" is Senior Pat Clohessy as he completes an overhead during a sectional match.

"What a choke" ... Senior Brad Yohler seems to be wondering how he could ever miss a shot like that.

Spikers become more competitive

The Bearcat spikers, under coach Brice Miller, didn't have the kind of year they had hoped to have, as they finished the year with only five 5 wins and 18 losses. They did, however, become more competitive near the end of the season as they captured three of their five wins in their final seven matches. This included their win over Cowan, which Miller referred to as "the best match of the season."

Leading the spikers was senior Lisa Strong, who received the Most Valuable Player award. The Most Improved Player award went to junior Margi Beebe, and the Spirit — Hustle — Desire award went to freshman Jennifer Hottinger.

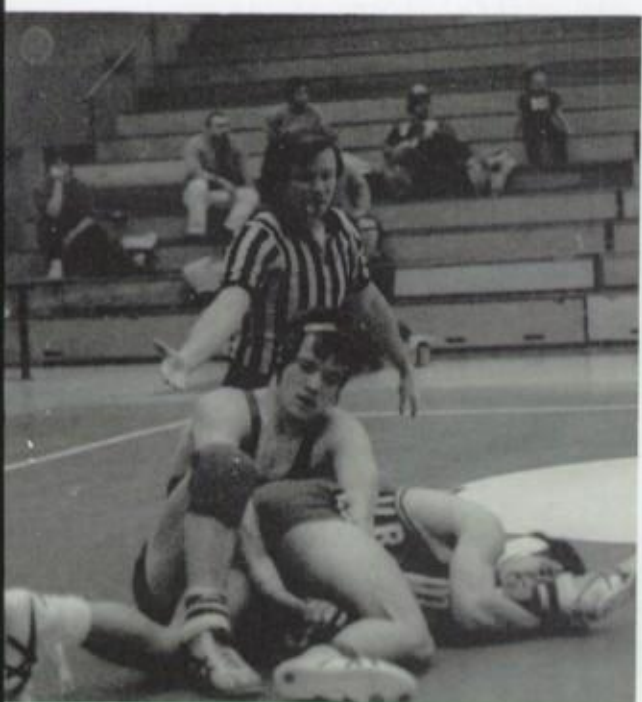

Spikin' Holly Gilkison stretches over the net to put it away.

Ron Streaan, at 119 pounds, ended out the year with a finish of second place in both NCC and sectional. Ron closed strong by capturing first place regional.

Tandy Martin, at 132 pounds, finished in the top spot in NCC, sectional, and regional competition, while completing an outstanding individual record of 24-1-1.

177 pound Melvin Bryant placed second in NCC, first in sectional, and second in regional.

Swimmers' season slips away

Considering that the Berrcat tankers compiled a 9-3 record just one year ago, and also considering that that very team consisted of 6 returning juniors, it could be assumed that the following year, 1983 would have been even better. Not so, this year's team slumped to a puzzling 2-12 finish with their only wins coming at the hands of Southside and Madison Heights.

However there are two individuals in particular, seniors Dan Leaird and Tony Brewer, who deserve merit for their fine performances in the tank. Leaird, who recieved both the "High Point Man" and "Outstanding Achievement" awards broke a 15 year old school record when he swam the 50 freestyle in a time of 23.05 while Brewer's consistently outstanding performances earned him the "Best All-Around" award.

'Cats win eight behind dynamite duo

Seniors Ernestine Miller and Sally Feick led the girls basketball team to eight victories, a school record for wins. Miller led the team in scoring for the third year in a row, averaging 14.4 points per game and was awarded honorable mention All-State by "Hoosier Basketball" magazine. Feick was right behind Miller as she pumped in an average of 10.5 points a game, earning her a place on the all NCC team. She was also distinguished as being nominated to the Academic All-State Team. After winning their first ever sectional game against Daleville, they fell to the hands of the eventual winner, the Northside Titans.

"Central students and fans can look forward to some great teams in the next few years," says Junior Varsity Coach Mike Drews after leading his squad to an outstanding 17-3 record.

The future 'Cats were led by Sophomore guard Willie Stanback. He led the team in scoring with an 11.8 average and in assists with 61. He shared the top honors in steals with Danny Burns by stealing 31 each.

Junior Larry Dollison hauled down a team high 77 rebounds while Rodell Wallace was the top field goal shooter and Junior Jeff Cunningham hit 82 percent of his free throws lead the team in that category.

It should also be noted that one player, Freshman sensation Dee Erby, led the team scoring until he was injured the Pendleton Heights game late in December.

Smooth release . . . lefty guard, Bill Keiths, freshman, puts one up from outside.

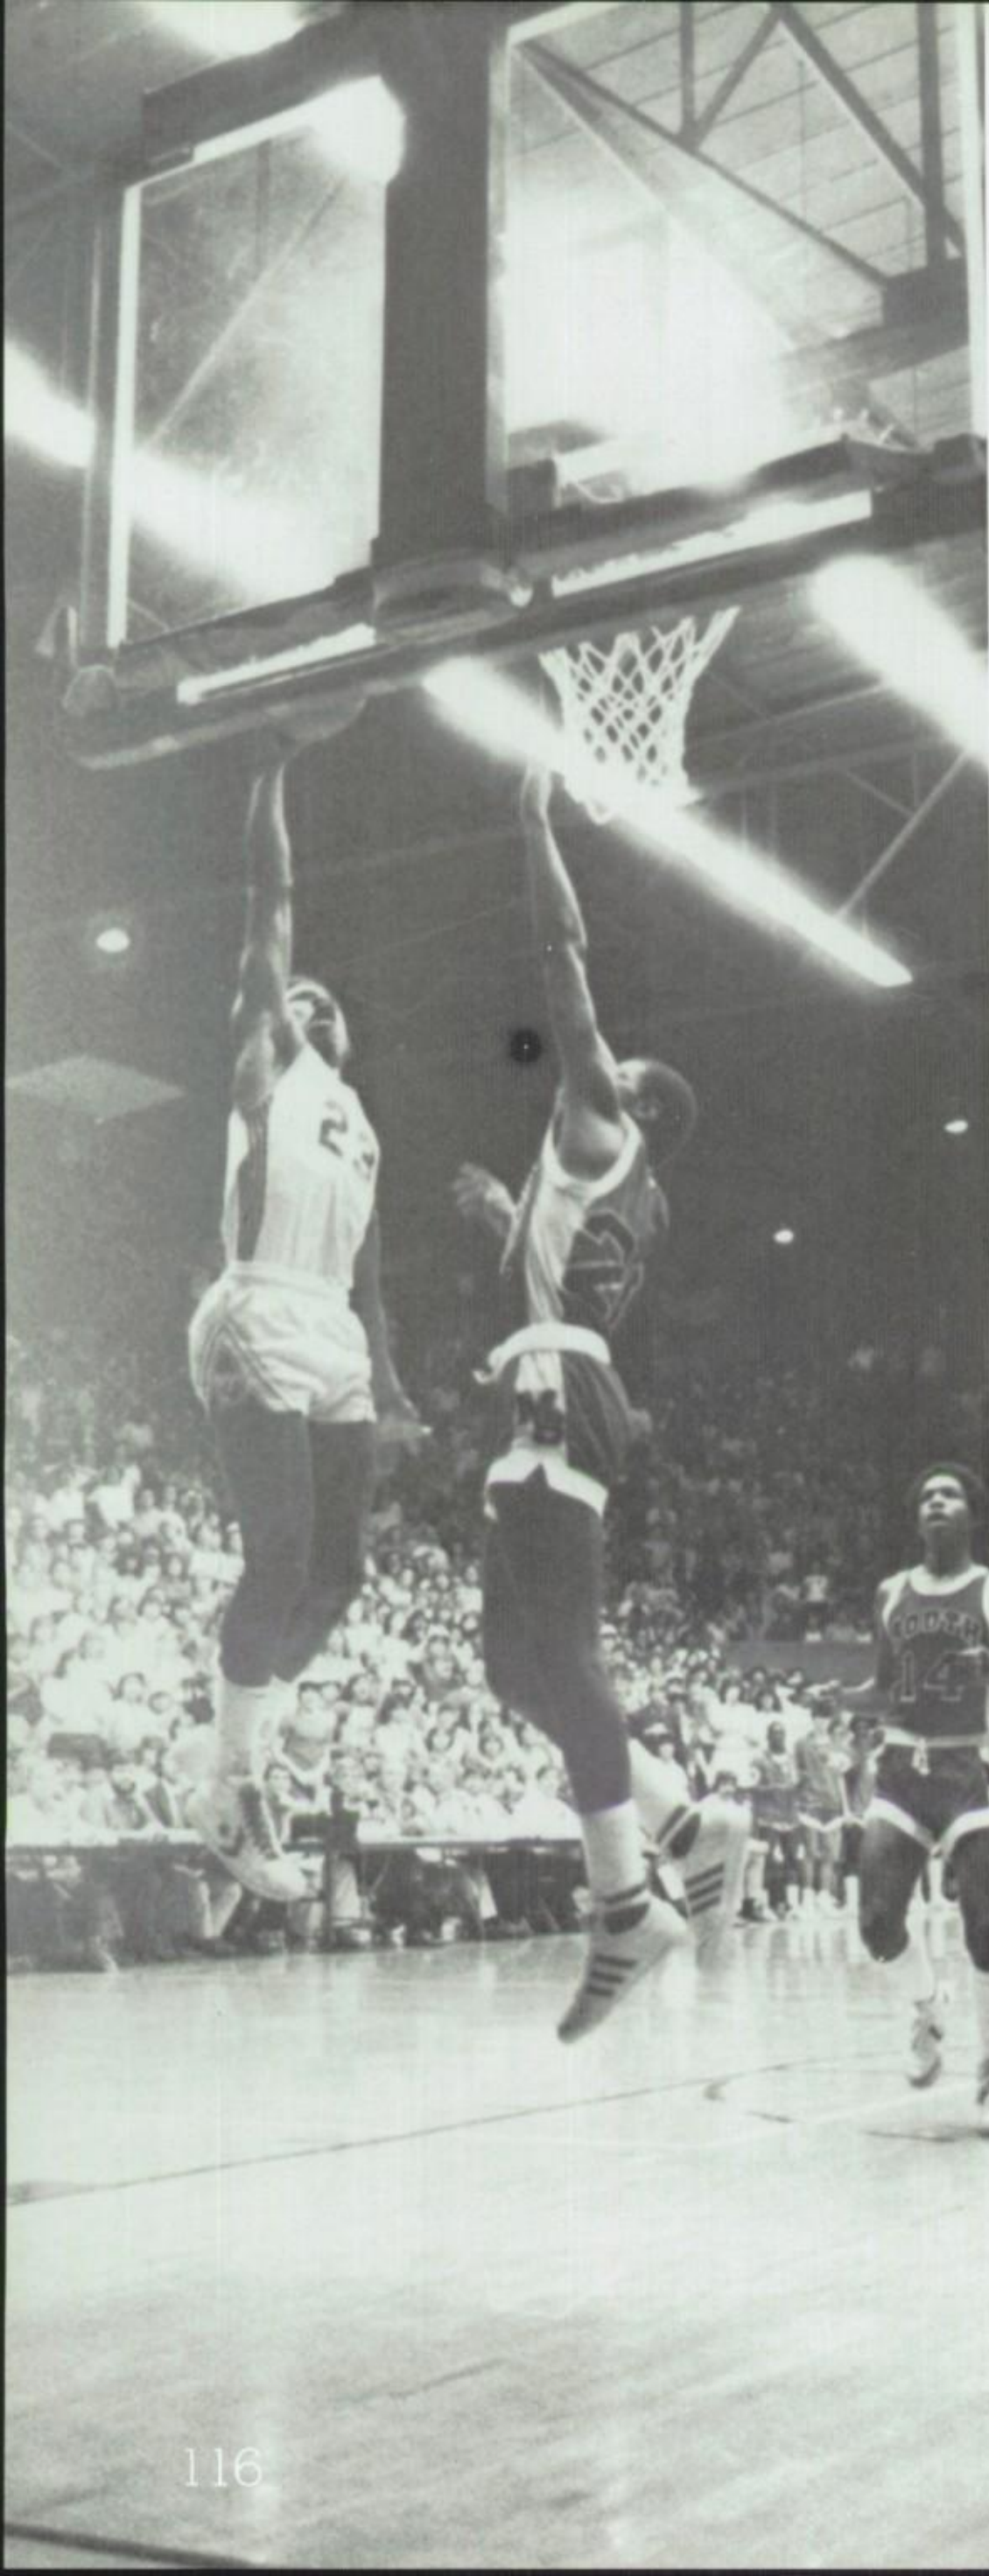

If the freshmen basketball team's 11-5 record is any true indication of what's in store in the near future, Bearcat fans can continue to expect an excellent varsity program.

Under the first year

Coach Joe Schmaltz, the team had three main leaders — Bill Keiths, Marq Montgomery, and Tim Smith. Keiths was the teams floor general as he led the team in steals and assists while placing thrid in scoring. Montgomery hauled down a team-high 79 rebounds and also led the squad with an average of 12 points per game. Smith followed closely behind Montgomery in both rebounds and scoring.

Sagging in the middle is the Bearcat defense, led here by senior Greg Jeffers.

Season slips away in sectional final

A low pass ... a bobbled ball ... a steal ... and a game ending jump shot that hits only the net ... all this in a span of 11 seconds to down our Bearcats in the Sectional final against the Southside Rebels.

It wasn't typical Bearcat ending, but it was understandable considering that the season was an unpredictable one full of extreme highs and extreme lows. In one stretch the 'Cat's lost five games in a row. However, they still managed to end with a 14-8 record.

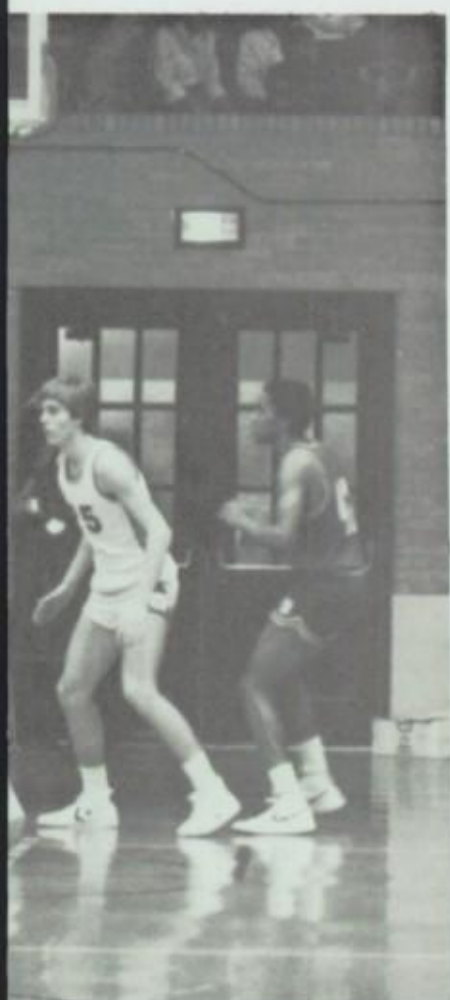

Leading the 'Cats attack was one of the city's leading shooters, Senior Tony Vance, who led the team in scoring with an average of 15.5 points per game.

Equally valuable to the team were Seniors Rob Wagner and Kevin Seramur. Wagner was second to Vance in the scoring department with 13.4 average and led the team in assists with 85. Seramur was the only other 'Cat to average a double figure with a 10.5 clip, along with the distinction of hauling down nearly twice as many rebounds as anyone else on the team with a total of 147.

Flying the friendly skies ... Senior Sherman Anthony soars for two points against Southside in Sectionals. He then hit the foul shot, tying the game at 27.

He stops ... pops ... goooooo!!
Senior Kevin Seramur hits a soft jumper over a Highland defender.

He plays both ends ... Senior sharpshooter Tony Vance proves to a Burris player that he can play defense, too.

The "High Five" ... members of the varsity team get fired up during introductions.

Stray 'Cat strut inside Hoosier Hysteria

"It's only a game." While this worn-out saying is largely true, and while, in relationship to other aspects and facets of life, sports are really not that important, sports, basketball in particular, has put Muncie Central on the map — and given us a name, Muncie Central — Home of the Bearcats.

Here, Basketball is not merely "a game". Just try and tell that to 4,000 Bearcat fans crammed in the fieldhouse, yelling and screaming and clapping and jumping to support to the purple and white.

Yes, basketball is a game, but for about two hours it can be life or death for Bearcat fans. It means everything ... as it did in the final game against Southside. We lost, but what the heck, it's "only a game."

Looking on with intensity is freshman coach Joe Schmaltz, JV coach Mike Drews, and varsity coach Bill Harrell.

Major breakthrough. Senior Kevin Seramur leads the 'Cats to another victory.

All up in arms. Bearcat fans show what Hoosier Hysteria is all about.

The agony of defeat . . . Varsity cheerleader Amy Wheeldon looks for a shoulder to lean on near the end of the final game of the sectional.

Power to the Bearcats!! Junior Tony Reese displays his show of powers.

Oh, say can you see? Senior exchange student Jonas Albage sings the American flag raising deal.

Sell, Sell, Sell!

Organizations

As you stood at your locker, as you sat in class, as you walked down the hall, it slyly approached you. It thrust brochures, candy bars, and gummy bears into your hands. Eyes flashing dollar signs, it appealed to your heart, stomach, and pocketbook, not necessarily in that order. Yes, it was the dreaded fund-raising campaign.

Because of the ailing economy, field trips, parties, and annual projects were more difficult to finance than ever before. Organizations found their budgets were expanding while their treasury was diminishing. To be able to operate, clubs had to sell, sell, sell.

Everyday there was a new opportunity to support an organization. Calendars, candles, candy bars, and caramels caused Bearcats to find their lunch money diminishing rapidly.

With the variety of clubs, it seemed as though every Bearcat was on the inside of a fund-raising project. That didn't stop us from spending our last dime to support another organization and fill our stomachs!

Call her the "Samori Rocker." Senior Joann Hendrix demonstrates human sacrificial ritual on Senior Holly Gilkison at the Spanish Club Halloween Party.

Budding Picassos. The Physics Club paints the Rebel infested sewer a rich purple.

Library, A-V, T.V.

Student Aids keep things rolling

Library, audiovisual, and television retrieval workers played important roles in the everyday life at Muncie Central. Library assistants did various jobs in the library under the guidance of librarian Mrs. Marilyn Carey and her secretary, Mrs. Rosemary Brown.

Audiovisual workers were in charge of transporting and setting up film projectors, and other types of equipment used in classes. These students were under the supervision of Mrs. Dorothy Hamilton.

T-V retrieval under the direction of Mr. Mark Coers and Mr. Charles Ray were responsible for the televisions in the school used by classes for special programs. Retrieval students also put on the daily announcements and learned how to use the mini television studio.

Ready for delivery — A-V helper junior Larry Wilkins prepares a film projector for a class.

You're on — seems to be what senior Joy Meyers is saying as she directs Central's daily announcements.

How amusing — junior library aid Margi Beebe cracks a smile as she reads some library material before putting it away.

Heavy stuff — senior Troy Hensley doesn't appear to be having any trouble as he pushes a T.V. to a classroom.

Taking it easy — senior Pat Clohessy relaxes as he does the announcements with senior Joann Hendrix.

This is the way it is — Seniors Pat Clohessy and Steve Shick discuss an object on an ELP fieldtrip.

Taking a look — Junior Tim Silvers takes an extra look at a collection, during a trip to an art gallery.

That's Incredible! Seniors Derek Ludwig and Hoogenboom find something interesting to look at.

Official gathering — Junior Carole Long, senior Maria Harris and juniors Renee Conley and Laura Tucker, along with sponsor Mr. Phil Hossom, talk over a student council activity.

Working hard — Junior Renee Conley works without hesitation on her project, the Delaware County workshop.

I'll look for it — Senior class vice-president Jerome Conley, looks in a file cabinet for information needed by senior class president, Kevin Roberts.

Student Council, ELP

Making a good place better

Student Council played an active role in this year's activities. They started out the year by planning our homecoming activities. Council also ran the Delaware county workshop. This was attended by schools from all over Delaware County. The workshop was given to help students at other schools gain leadership qualities.

The annual bike race was another activity run by Student Council. Council was also in charge of class elections.

The officers this year for Student Council were president Maria Harris, vice-president Renee Conley, secretary Laura Tucker, and treasurer Carole Long. This year's sponsor was Mr. Phil Hossom.

The Extended Learning Program was for students wishing to learn more in certain subject areas. Some students audited courses at Ball State, others studied under Central teachers. Each student had a special project or evaluation to complete for a grade. ELP met on Monday afternoons for field trips or special speakers. ELP sponsor is Mrs. Marvene Waddell.

Business, COE-OEA

Taking care of business

Business Club, headed by sponsors Mr. Phil Hossom and Mrs. Pat Wittman, was one of Central's largest clubs with 75 people. Club members meet once a month after school. Activities for members included the famous carmel sale in the fall and spring, a Christmas party, bowling party, and a trip to King's Island with the money earned from candy sales.

The Office Education Association, OEA, was a group that strived to better their social and communication skills by working in various offices throughout the city. OEA also participated in the OEA state competition. Officers for the year were Diana Vorhees, president; Rhonda Bass, vice president; Tonia Kitchen, secretary; Tonia White, treasurer; Debbie Williams, historian; and Minerva Stigler, parliamentarian. The sponsor was Mr. Phil Carey.

Hard at work — Senior Teresa Jones never runs out of work at her COE job at Ball Memorial Hospital.

Controlled controls — Senior Minervia Stigler seems to be quite in control of her duties at Ball Memorial Hospital.

Copy Right Lori Slaven, junior, copies material on a copy machine in her office machines class.

Got it! Junior Donald Hollensbe finds the mistake on his paper for a typing class.

Scrubbing away Senior Joann Hendrix appears to be scrubbing away as skit partner Janie Hinshaw recites her part.

Thespians

Lights, camera, action

With the experienced guidance of sponsor Miss Rebecca Bly, the Thespians produced two excellent shows this year. The first, a musical, "Free to be You and Me," was performed in the fall. The second, "Arsenic and Old Lace," was performed in the spring. To become a true thespian hours of work on the plays must be completed. Thespians had their candlelight initiation in the fall.

Many hours of regular play practice, and set building were duties of the play cast and technical crew. Some thespians may choose to pursue acting as a career, to them, break a leg!

On the chorus line members of the cast "Free to be You and Me" sing their final number.

Talking it Over Senior Debbie Burks and sophomore Mike Evans perform their skit, "A Boy Meets Girl."

Actors in action Seniors Richard Persinger, John Brewer, Kevin Kalley and junior Laura Tucker play their parts to perfection in the fall play.

May I take your order? Senior HERO student Sandy Harper takes someone's order at McDonalds on Madison.

Proud display Senior DECA students John Flowers, Lynn Ault, Dan Garrett, and Lisa Jarnigan display their awards from the Jerry Lewis Bowl-a-thon.

HERO Junior HERO, DECA

Business heros

The Distributive Education Club of America's slogan is "Developing future leaders for marketing and distribution." This organization is for students interested in the marketing distribution business. Students attend DECA class, taught by sponsor Duane Huffman, and also hold jobs that deal with marketing. Officers for this year were president Lynn Ault, vice-president Valecia Vaughn, secretary Christy Wallace, treasurer Carolyn Strong, reporter Ed Thompson, parliamentarian Jon Burk.

The Home Economics Related Occupations organization was established to help students gain knowledge of the free enterprise system. Sponsor for HERO was Mrs. Cheryl Smothers. The 1983 officers were Scott Gates, president, Kelly Sears, vice-president, Kelli Miller, secretary, Lori Rinard, treasurer, and John English, reporter. Students had jobs in area restaurants, and also attended HERO classes. This program enabled students to earn money and high school credit simultaneously.

Forward March the band displays their top form as they march in the homecoming parade.

1983 Muncie Central Band

Band, Orchestra

Band is on its way

The Muncie Central band continued its strive for perfection this year under the expert direction of Mr. William Pritchett. Since he became the director a year ago, Mr. Pritchett has made many changes in the style and form of the band.

With all improvements made, the band was once again a source of power for the Bearcats. Band members put in long hours in preparation for the games at which they performed. They were the main force of spirit at all Central games.

The Orchestra, a small but mighty group of three members, performed in the spring Dimensions concert. They were also directed by Mr. William Pritchett.

Magician, Munsonian

Deadline magicians

The MAGICIAN, MUNSONIAN and Quill and Scroll were all organizations based in the publications department. Members of both of these staffs worked very hard throughout the year. Putting out a newspaper and a yearbook involved many hours of after school work. No matter what was completed, there was always another deadline to meet. Sponsor, Mrs. Rebecca Clock, in her first year at Central and in the publications field, learned along with the staffs. It was also good to have new ideas.

Quill and Scroll was the honors club for staff members that kept a 3.0 grade point average during the year.

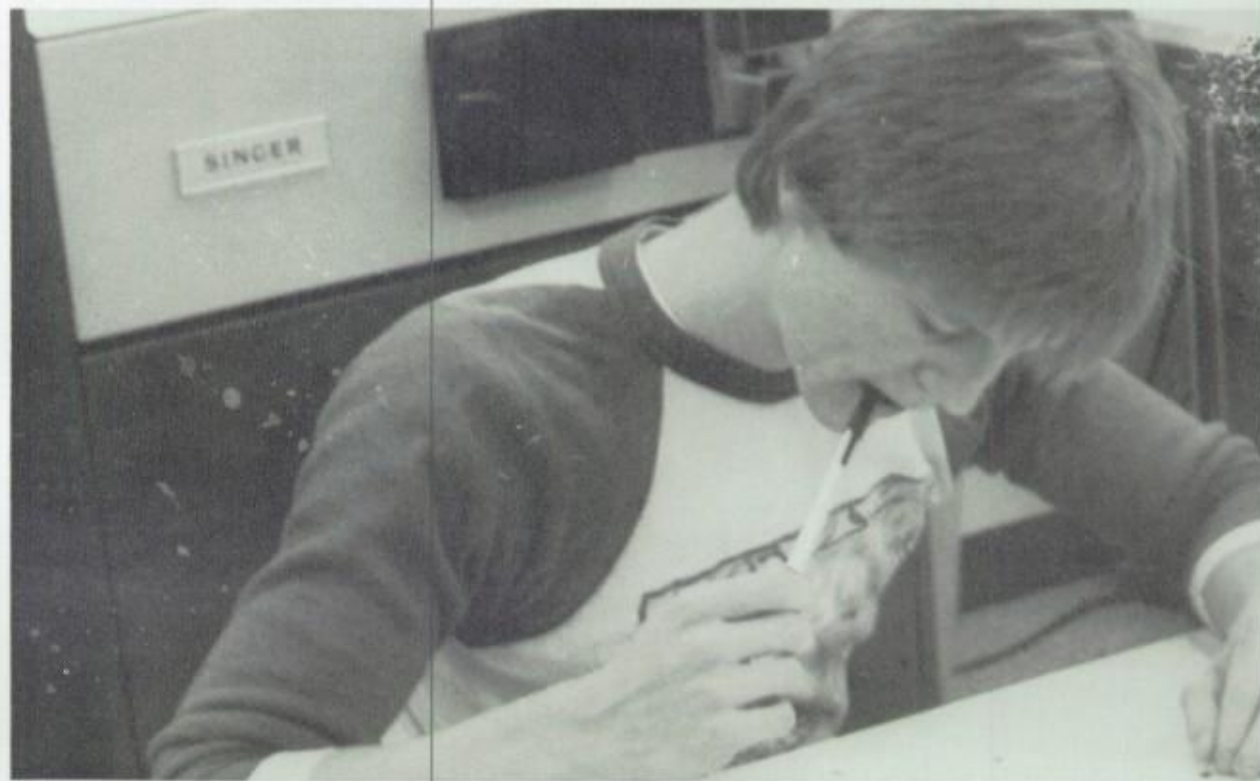

Even though most publications members spent their time working, there was always time to sit back and enjoy the school year.

Where is it? Senior photographer Kim Gishler looks for an item in her file drawer.

Spanish, German Foreign fun

Adding to this year's excitement were the Spanish and German clubs. Members of the Spanish club visited Mexico last summer, with tours in Mexico City, Taxco, and Acapulco. This year's activities included a Halloween party, Christmas party, and another party in February when the Miss Seniorita contest was held. Officers for the Spanish club were Joann Hendrix president, Stacy Thornburg president, Amy Wheeldon vice-president, Holly Gilkison secretary, and Ana Quirk, treasurer.

German Club, the most active of all the foreign language clubs, maintained their vigorous pace with activities such as an Oktoberfest, soccer games, and various parties. The steering committee behind the German club was sponsor Mary Findling and officers: Sally Feick president, Steve Shick vice-president, Laura Muterspaugh secretary, and Jeff Teal treasurer.

Guapa Chicas — Senior Gretchen Fritz and Sophomore Michelle Hammond dress in authentic Mexican style for the fall Spanish party.

Getting to the heart of things — Senior Ana Quirk holds a calves heart used in a Spanish skit.

Caught in the act, Senior Lee Morris is caught by our photographer as he paints.

Cover up! Senior Howard Holbrook paints away on his portion of the storm drain.

A job well done. Physics club members pose for a group shot around their finished product.

Group discussion. Senior Honor Society members Tony Brewer, Jill Hall, and Maria Harris talk over their scholarship plans.

Picture of perfection. Senior Kevin Roberts perfects a drawing for an art class.

Physics, Honor Society

Academicians active

The Physics Club, generally for the academically inclined student, performed many important duties at Central. Besides selling candy, Physics Club was responsible for performing such essential jobs as watering the plants in front of the school and painting windows for Christmas. Another patriotic job done by the club was painting "our" storm drain to let the community know that it was part of Bearcat country.

This year's Physics Club officers were president Sally Feick, vice president Tony Brewer, secretary Sherry Voytic, and treasurer Joann Hendrix. Mr. William Beuoy was the sponsor.

National Honor Society, another club for the scholars, was for students who maintained a 3.0 grade point average. Honor Society started off the year by having the first kissing booth in Muncie Central history at the homecoming special events. Other activities were a hayride and bonfire, and a ski trip. The year was concluded with Honor Society initiation for new members. Officers for the year were president Sally Feick, vice president Holly Gilkison, recording secretary Sherry Voytic, corresponding secretary Becky Harris, and treasurer Jill Hall.

Cheerleaders

Go fight win!!

Ready, O.K. — freshman Stacy Sparks starts a cheer at a pep session.

Cheerleading, one of the most competitive groups was sponsored again this year by Mrs. Penny Seramur. Many people often asked "What did the cheerleaders actually do?" Besides making signs for the student center, they also decorated lockers, made spirit cards for team members, and were in charge of promoting school spirit.

With the number of cheerleaders being only five per squad instead of the preferred six, it was difficult to get all the teams covered. All squads were also in charge of leading the planning for pep session along with attending and cheering all home games of their respective teams.

Varsity and J.V. Cheerleaders: Row 1: Jenni Phillips, Debbie Burks, Amy Wheeldon, Shenita Byrd, Sherry Voytic; Row 2: Holly Davis, Patty Long, Selena Williams, Amy Dye, Andrea Voisard.

Talking it over — Seniors Richard Bilbrey, Rick Hayward and Sherry Voytic discuss their next move during cheerleading practice.

1983 Jazz Ensemble

Jazz Ensembles, Flag Corps

It's ragtime

The drill team showed great improvement this year. Try outs for the team are held in the spring. This enables the group to practice before school begins so they can prepare for the early fall football games. This year's drill team was advanced enough to perform different and more difficult routines than ever before. The reason for the girls' expertise is their sixth hour class, which often lasted an extra hour.

The jazz ensemble, formed by members of the band, kept up its reputation started last year when the ensemble was originated. The ensemble with director Mr. William Pritchett, performed in the Christmas concert, and Dimensions. They also planned to attend contests.

Ensemble, Madrigals, Treble Tones

Sing, sing a song

Central's choral groups did a fine job this year. Treble Tones was a group of about 15 girls. These girls, along with the Ensemble, performed various songs ranging from past to present. Madrigal singers performed their songs of the past in harmony without accompaniment. All groups, headed by Mrs. Lucille Kuhn, met during class hours everyday. These groups performed many times throughout the year for school convocations and individual performances. Members also performed in state contests for individual awards. All students deserve to be commended for an excellent job.

Ensemble: Row 1: R. Persinger, T. Shaw, S. Norris, B. Langdon, D. White, W. Johnston, D. Stahl, J. Brewer; Row 2: D. Bumpus, K. Selvey, T. Williams, D. Wagner, J. Shockley, A. Bryant, D. Brown, T. Osbonre, J. Albage, E. Reece, S. Claspell, K. Kantz, J. Petro, C. Brown, C. Sollins.

Treble Tones: M. Henderson, T. Haskell, T. Adkins, D. Rusaw, K. Lehman, T. Osborne, L. Wedmore, L. Sebring, B. Kidd, K. Saunders, S. Shaw, T. Shaw.

Another Elivs? Senior John Brewer does his Elvis imitation for a special song.

1982-83 Muncie Central Cheerblock

Fun times — Senior M-Club members Sherri Miller, Jill Hall, and Ana Quirk share a laugh during a game.

Bearcat backers — cheerblock members show their enthusiasm for the Bearcat basketball team.

Playing it cool — Freshmen cheerblock members Becky Weaver, Stacy Wallace, and Polly Harrell bring out their shades to watch a basketball game.

Cheerblock, M-Club

Student fans in the stands

The 1982-83 cheerblock backed the basketball team in fine fashion. The block, clad in their traditional cream and purple, was required to attend all home games and help the cheerleaders with cheers and with firing up the team and the crowd. Cheerblock gave Central students a chance to form as a group and to urge the 'Cats to a victory.

M-Club, a revitalized group of all varsity award winners was sponsored by Mrs. Penny Seramur and Mr. Mike Drews. After a fall organization party, club members were involved in sales projects to possibly buy a new trophy case for Central. M-Club also had a seating section at basketball games. Other events included a possibility of a trip to Kings Island.

Peace? — Senior Brent Langdon appears to be the only Bearcat showing the peace sign during a basketball game.

Keeping an eye on the action — Senior M-Club member Tony Brewer keeps a sharp eye on the basketball court during a varsity game.

Wrong language? — Seniors Mike Stafford and Maria Harris try to show Senior French club officer Mark McKinney the right language to take.

Searching for something new — Senior Tea Room student Julie Maxwell looks for a new recipe for a project.

Culture French, Tea Room

Different cultures create fun for all

Culture Club, also known as Latin Club or Junior Classical League, had a busy schedule this year. Meetings were held once a month after school. Major highlights of the 1982-83 year were making togas in the fall, initiation in the winter, and a Roman banquet for the spring. This year's officers were Debbie Workman, president; Chris Brighton, vice-president; Scott Kramer, secretary; and Jon Stewart, treasurer.

French Club's new sponsor, Mrs. Sue Scott, brought some new activities for the club. In the fall French Club members sold candy for fund raising. Besides a Christmas party the club planned to listen to French speakers and to prepare and eat French food.

Other possible activities were trips to a French restaurant and skiing.

A new organization this year was Tearoom. This was a home economics club taken as a class. These girls along with sponsor Ms. Sandy Schmidt served luncheons and prepared cake and cookie orders for the public. This money was used in the department.

This isn't happening seems to be the expression on Senior Kevin Mahonee's face as other Culture Club members pose for a picture.

Tim for a smile — Senior Mitzi Rumple takes time from her Tea Room activities to relax.

Getting ready — French club students prepare their presentation for the Christmas party with the other city schools.

Making The Grade Academics

After we enjoyed ball games, dances, and parties, our books sat on our desks, waiting to be opened and devoured. After all, the satisfaction of "making the grade" on that final exam, and walking across the stage to be handed a diploma was what it was all about.

Because Central provided new facilities and capable faculties, Bearcats were given opportunities to expand their knowledge. Although education was often taken for granted, school work remained a top priority.

In 1983, a different approach to school spirit was introduced to the student body. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, periods were shortened seven minutes to allow for "home-rooms." Students were assigned to a permanent group according to class, and supervised by a teacher. The half hour permitted us to make new friends and to learn about school affairs.

The inside of 1983, for most Bearcats, was to receive an education.

Holding the key to her own future is Sophomore Wendy Allen as she practices a typing exercise.

Caught in the act of studying are a group of hygiene students relaxing in the living area.

Freshmen students, along with other Muncie Central students, were actively involved in the Physical Education classes offered this year.

Freshmen are required to take one year of general P.E., this includes both boys and girls. Some activities covered in these classes were basketball, volleyball, swimming, tennis, badmitton, softball, and gymnastics. Girls gym was taught by Miss Dietrich and Miss Pepler. Boys gym was taught under Mr. Cox and Mr. Harrell.

Other classes that were offered to students besides freshmen were: Leisure Sports for boys and girls, Physical Conditioning for girls only, weight lifting for boys, and a variety of swimming classes for both boys and girls.

Classes could be taken for a full year by semester.

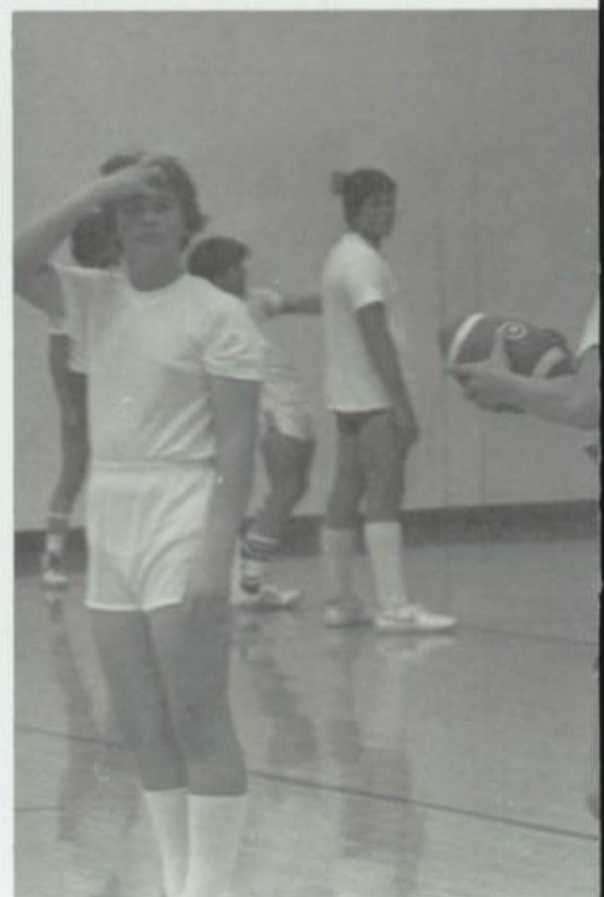

Miss Pepler commented on the fact that freshmen students are required to take P.E., "I think it is a good idea because it gives students a place to relieve the tension."

Catch this! Physical education students enjoy a little free time.

Another boring day! Seems to be the expression on freshman Mike Harr's face.

"Watch this dive you guys!" yells freshman Chris Clapper.

Physical Education students keep in shape

Well, this is it! Miss Peppler reports scores to freshmen Carol Waganer and Linda Taylor.

Bright eyed and bushy tailed. Seems to be the expression on sophomore Melissa Rex's face.

"Foreign language study increases one's awareness of other cultures. It also helps one understand his own language better," states Miss Findling.

Students that took a foreign language worked hard to achieve the goals in learning something new.

Whether it was Spanish, German,

French, or Latin, students found it was fun and easy if they really tried and wanted to learn.

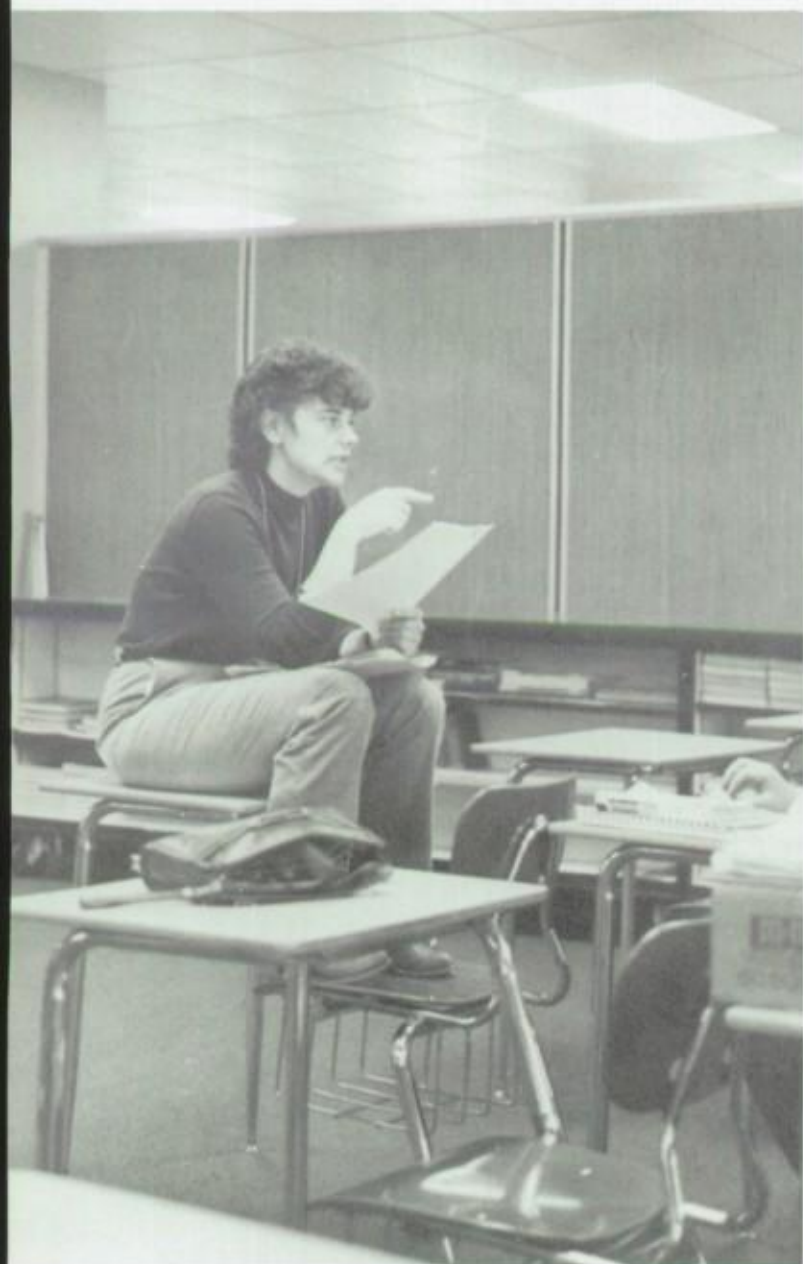

Each language is taught in a series of four years, each getting a little more interesting and exciting, and for some students more difficult.

At the close of the year, the language clubs try to take a trip somewhere. Sometimes these include ski trips, and even Mexico.

Anxiously awaiting dismissal! Students from a foreign language class stare at the clock.

Foreign language, a new beginning

Studying can be fun! Seniors Mike Safford, Paul Cooper, and Mark McKinney seem happy that the assignment was short today.

Finishing Up! Seniors Colleen Lynch and Becky Harris finish up their assignment.

Hmmmmmmmmmm! I wonder how you spell it, seems to be the expression on junior Tammy Ricardi's face.

Is it animal, vegetable, or mineral?

Looks pretty good. Mr. Douglas checks out projects by Jason Wilkinson and Chris Brighton Sophomores.

How interesting! Julie Edwards Sophomore, reads instructions before proceeding with an experiment.

More questions! Juniors Francis Harris and Joe VanCamp finish the questions at the end of the chapter.

What an exciting year students had in zoology and chemistry classes.

At the beginning of the 1982-83 year, all zoology students were required to gather an insect collection. Most found it interesting to track down bugs, and pin them to styrofoam. Among these insects, everything from fleas to wasps were collected.

Besides collecting bugs, students dissected worms and frogs, at their own choice, of course, and under the supervision of the teacher.

Chemistry students also had a challenging year. In these classes, Central students worked a lot with math problems, and solving equations.

After they had perfected these, they added chemicals together to form compounds. This was not an easy task for some students, but for others it was a breeze.

Both classes helped a great deal in learning new and better things and preparing for the future of America.

At least one of us is busy! Eileen Mazanowski, Sophomore keeps busy grading papers for Mr. Conway.

Come on little fellows! Sophomore Paul Armstrong is busy working on an assignment.

Industrial Arts and Home Economics were a great interest for many students at Muncie Central this year.

Actually you couldn't really label them industrial arts and home economics, because each one had many branches of it. You had a choice between woods, electricity, printing, drafting, and more. Girls were mostly signed up for home ec, but there were also male students in the senior class, taking a chef's class. For girls only, home ec offered foods and clothing, along with Tea Room for junior and senior girls.

"I like Tea Room because we get to cook dinners and luncheons for different groups of people," states Senior Bonnie Swhier. "All we do is cook, cook, cook, and it is really fun."

Sew! Sew! Sew! Sophomore Jacqueline Koger learns to sew.

What kind of cookies are these? Seems to be what Junior Kim Beaty is saying to Andrea Skaggs, Sophomore.

Like what's the prob? Sophomores Brian Routh and Kent Kramer along with Mr. Baierwaller want to know what the deal is.

Cooking something up

Precise and perfect! Sophomore Shirley Say works hard on a printing project.

Getting all the wrinkles out of a finished shirt is Senior Rhonda Kirkland.

Special classes at Muncie Central were specifically designed to help students with learning disabilities and handicaps.

In these classes students learned many useful things needed when taking the other regular classes at Central.

By participating in the regular flow with all students, these students worked hard sharpening their skills.

All students were greatly involved in the extra activities at Central; some of these include cheerblock, sports, and music, as well as many others.

Hearing-impaired students were given a class to help them fully understand the regular class material.

Each student worked hard throughout the year to achieve their personal goals.

Oh Boy! Freshman Stephanie Fogle, Paul Taylor, and Angie Akins impatiently wait for the bell to ring.

Come on bell! Seems to be the expressions on sophomore Lee Aldridge's and senior Lynn Sites face as they wait for the bell.

Teachers help out! Mrs. Mc Michael helps out freshman Becky Dunsmore with a confusing problem as freshman Danny Durrett watches.

Special Education students stay involved

Time out! Says Mr. Fisher as the class gets a little too rowdy.

Ho hum! Mrs. Harrel goes over tomorrow's assignment while students study for today's test.

Picking a career for the future

This stuff is really interesting! Rick Davis, graduate, seems to be caught up in something not too boring.

You typed it right! Mrs. Kishel approves of the good job Laura Tweedy, Senior has done.

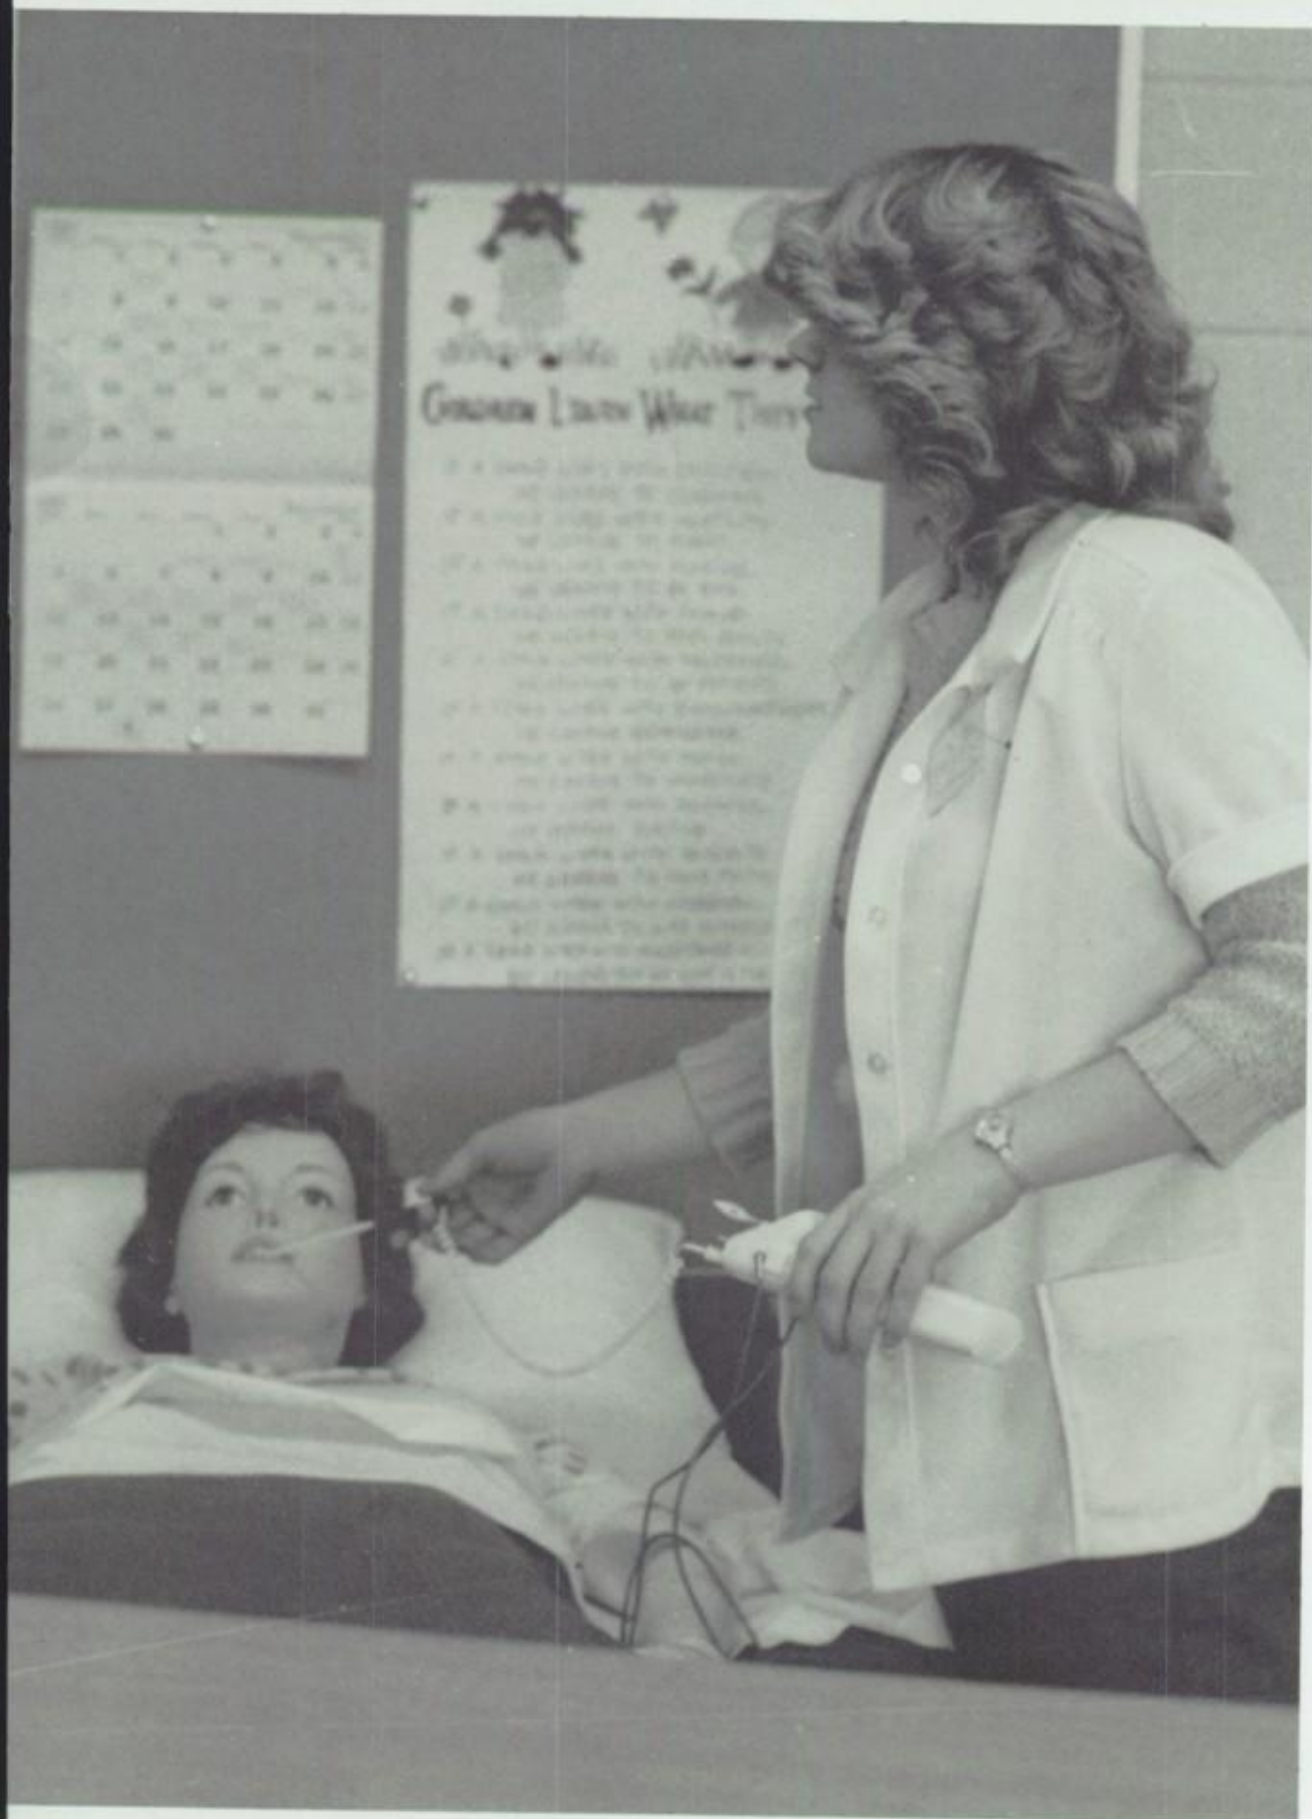

Muncie Area Career Center Students showed great enthusiasm in picking their careers so early in life. Although it was a tough choice to make, these had many possibilities to choose from. Students were already provided with transportation to and from the building everyday.

In order to attend MACC, students had to forfeit three hours of class time in the morning or in the afternoon at Muncie Central. Some of the careers they had to choose from were auto mechanics, welding, drafting, cooking, child care, and many others.

All in all, MACC helped Muncie Central students take a giant step toward their future, and helped them in preparing for adult life situations.

I'd rather be watching paint dry seems to be the expression on senior John Twilly's face.

We did everything we could. Seniors Lora Spoonmore and Arlene Spradlin practice as they study nursing at MACC.

The Business classes at Central this year, as well as in the past, were very helpful in learning a number of useful things in the business area.

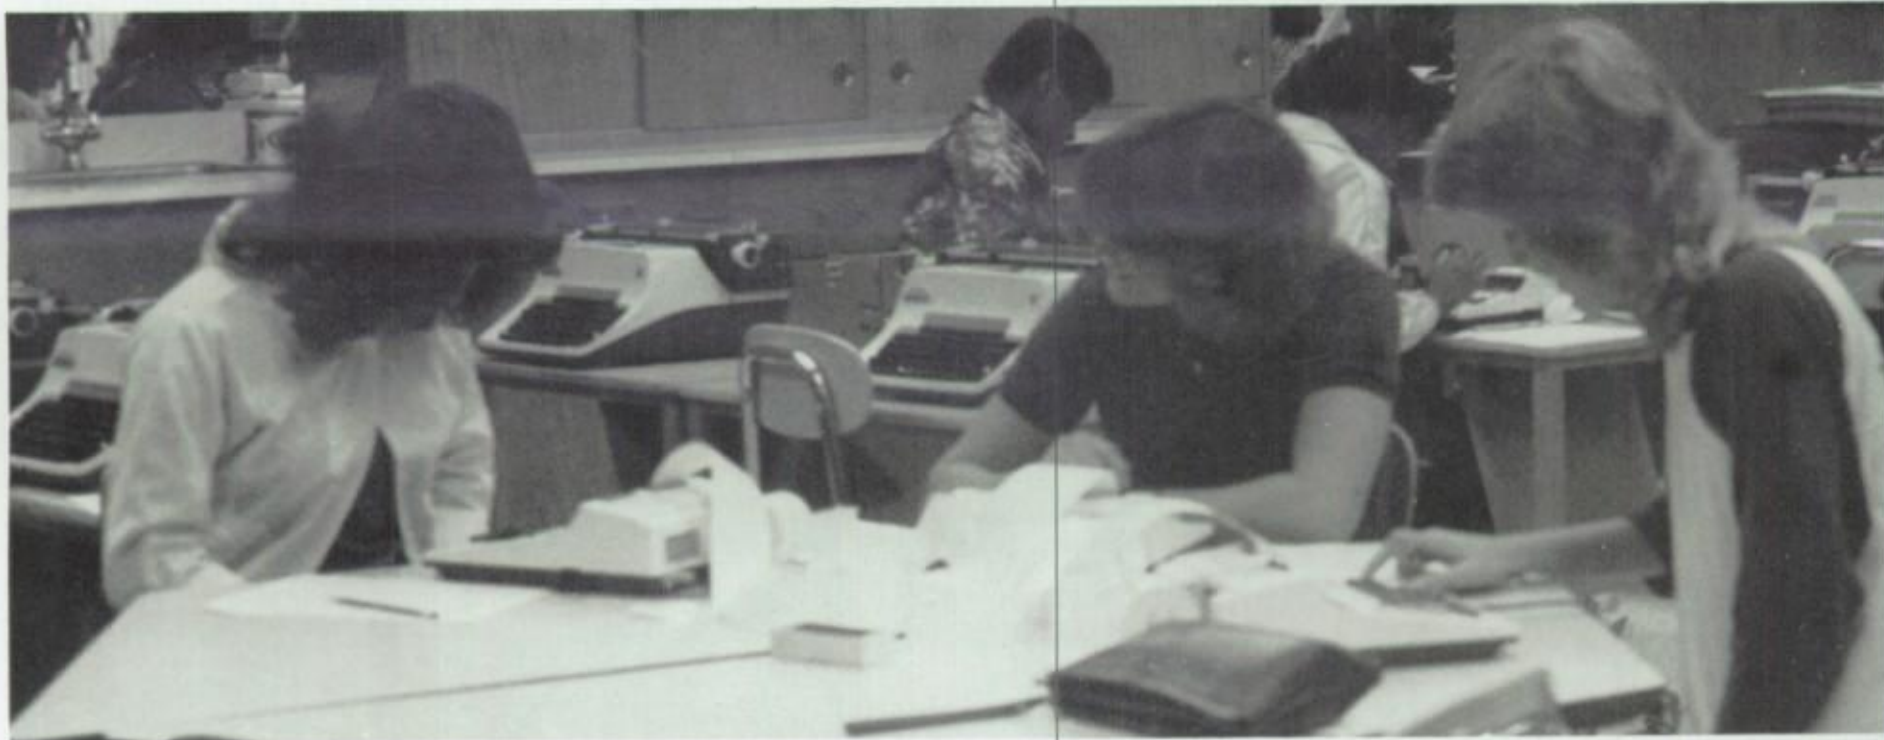

Students were offered a large choice of elective business classes. Some of these include Typing, I, II, III, and IV which was usually a big hit with freshmen, and sometimes upperclassmen. Also offered were such classes as Business Law, Consumer Economics, Merchandising, Word Processing, Shorthand and quite a few more. Students electing a business class might have had a problem in selecting the best one to take.

Along with just taking business classes students were also invited to attend a join business club. Each year the business club goes to Kings Island at the close of school, so various fundraising ideas take place throughout the year.

Making it up! Junior Gay Adams, makes up an assignment after school.

Let's get it together! Juniors Renee Buzzard, Renee St. John, and sophomore Chris Bennett calculate it together.

Business classes, preparing for the future

Let your fingers do the typing! Typing on and on is junior Donna Spurlin.

Pay Attention! Sophomore Maurice Shaffer and Junior Mitch Lampke, shows us their version of paying attention in class.

Get down on it! Mrs. Shannon helps out sophomore Carletha Jones, one of the many business students.

Mathematics spells trouble for many

That's so funny! Juniors Larry Dolison and Jeff Cunningham share a laugh.

Hey, is anybody listening? Freshman Leslie Crockett wonders if she's the only one not interested in studying.

Keeping Busy! Junior Victor Head stays busy in his geometry class.

There were many mathematics classes to choose from this year that most probably had a rough time picking the right one for them.

Math classes are suggested for different high school levels, although most students chose on their own.

Some classes offered were: General

Math, Algebra, I, Geometry, and Algebra II. For some students that wanted more of a challenge, Trigonometry, and Calculus were offered.

All Math classes helped in sharpening the finer arithmetic skills in everyone.

Added to the faculty this year was a new Math teacher. Mr. Dodson. Dodson taught mostly General Math classes first and second hour, then he went to Franklin to teach junior high school students. Along with his busy schedule, Dodson also coached baseball and was an assistant with football.

Pay attention class! Mr. Dixon explains the new challenge to his attentive students.

Everybody smile! Freshmen math students all give a big smile.

Now it's grammar time

Work! Work! Work! Brian Hollars, Freshman, works on an assignment in Freshman English class.

ZZZZZZZZZZ! Freshman Preston Haas finds this class most interesting.

Many students were involved in the English classes throughout the year. Freshmen were required to take a ninth grade English class. These were taught under the direction of Mr. Kappes, Mrs. Muterspaugh, and Miss Bly. In these classes students studied the common verbs and nouns, but also went into stories written by many different well known authors from America and other countries. Besides the Freshmen classes, others were available. Some of these included Composition, American Humor, Short Stories, and Plays for Pleasure, among many others that were also as interesting.

Mindy Claspell, Sophomore Journalism student comments, "I'm working for a Journalism major and this is the best place to start. It's very interesting and there are many fields I could enter."

Oh bore! Seniors Karen Vrooman and Lori Anderson seem to find this class a thrill.

Oh what's the answer! Senior Carolyn Strong works for the grade.

Is this right? Freshman Debbie Barnes is assisted in her English class by teacher Mr. Kappas.

Sell, Sell, Sell!

Ads

Ads editor Erin Hole, the entire MAGICIAN staff, and a few staffers from the MUNSONIAN, were responsible for obtaining the ads that appear on the following pages. It required dedication, extra hours, and a few inside tracks to make a sale. This year it was crucial to sell enough ads to be able to bring a quality yearbook at a reasonable price to the student body.

In order to pay bills, we had to convince businesses that to appear within the pages of the MAGICIAN would be worth their money and time. The staff would like to thank all area merchants and patrons for choosing to do so.

The bottom line. Without the green stuff, you would not be reading this now!

Delivering their pitch. Trying to sell an ad to Mr. Delk of Standt's Jewelers are Seniors Erin Hole, Ads Editor, and Lori Anderson.

Editor pays final respects 1983 staffers succeed

To the editors, photographers, and everyone else who I depended on, I would like to thank you for making this year a success. Everyone spent countless hours to write copy, to obtain pictures, and to sell ads.

The staff was very fortunate to have Mrs. Becki Clock accept yearbook advisor position. We weren't always the easiest people to be around, especially near deadlines, but she easily won respect and admiration inside and outside publications. She cared about the book, but most of all she cared about the people behind it. I know the entire staff would agree that the book would never have been completed without her patience, guidance and support.

The year had its lows along with its highs, but the efforts were rewarded many times over. Although most of the staff had little yearbook experience, they stuck with it, and made their deadlines (well, most of the time). The staff had the desire to make this yearbook the best it could be. So, congratulations staff. We succeeded.

Closing the year Only one label

The faces and places of Muncie Central — what they did, spoke, and thought — all comprised 1983. Hopefully, the Magician has captured a true representation of our lives.

1983 will never be labeled a "typical" year, nor will Central ever be proclaimed an "average" or "middle of the road" school. Purple and white, academic excellence, pride and spirit surpassing everyone else can be labeled only one way
— "BEARCAT!"

Enjoying the social event of the school day is Junior Sherol Thompson.

Trying to figure out the modern ladder before reading the directions are Senior hall decorators Steve Shick, Kim Gishler, and Dan Leaird.

Blasting out on the tuba is bluesman Senior Dave Hammer.

Listening intently to Coach Hay warn them that the chemical imbalance of the water might make them prematurely bald are members of the men's swimming team.
